Opening on 'Gypsy' postponed

Due to production problems that could not be overcome in time, the Pleasanton Playhouse was forced to cancel the scheduled Friday and Saturday night performances of "Gypsy" at Amador Valley High School auditorium.

The play, produced jointly with Chabot College, will now have its first performance Wednesday night at 8:30. It is also slated for next Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at Amador.

Persons holding tickets to the cancelled performances may mail them in or bring them to the Pleasanton Recreation Department on Bernal Avenue and specify any alternate date.

The show is also scheduled for the Chabot auditorium in Hayward on Aug. 26 and 27 and Sept. 2 and 3, with curtain at 8 p.m.

Director Glenn DuBose and producer Ann Carroll arrived at the joint decision in the early hours of Friday morning after problems proved insurmountable.

The biggest problem, according to a recreation department spokesperson, was in adjusting the large production of over 50 performers, innumerable sets, and full orchestra to the Amador auditorium.

DuBose called the surprise decision— "One of the hardest announcements I've ever had to make. This show is so close to being the wonderful presentation we envisioned, it would be a shame to give the public less than our best."

Skilled Mexican cowboys

Large crowds are expected again today for the color and excitement of a Mexican rodeo at the charro arena, 7900 Vallecitos Road, near Livermore. Showtime is 1 p.m. Charros Camperos del Valle in Livermore is hosting the seventh congress of charro competitions. Charros from California and Mexico are participating and demonstrating their skill in riding and roping. This trio is intent on the action Saturday afternoon.

Sheriff raps public safety action delays

OAKLAND — More than 30 legislative bills which would "protect the public from crime" are being bottled up in the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee, Alameda County Sheriff Tom Houchins has charged.

Houchins, who made the allegations in a press release from his office, said that the California Peace Officers Association is sponsoring the bills to "make our state a safer place to live".

More than 30 bills passed the California Senate unanimously, but the Assembly never got to vote on them because "of the anti - public protection stance consistently taken by the majority of the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee," said Houchins.

Houchins listed four bills of special concern to him. The first, SB450, would deny bail to any person awaiting appeal on the conviction of a) certain violent felonies in which the defendant used a firearm; b) trafficking in heroin; c) certain violent felonies for which the defendant had been separately convicted on at least two previous occasions the past 10 years.

The bill also would deny bail to any person who would "pose a threat to the public safety".

Houchins also likes SB 683 which would fund local district attorney's offices around the state concentrating on "the habitual criminal".

SB 1129 would permit of people who make indirect threats to public officers which cause the officer to resasonably fear for his or her safety.

Public utility officials and officer holders recently have been the subject of threats published in the underground press, said Houchins. There is no law against indirect threats, even though they place the recipient in fear of his or her own safety, said the sheriff.

SB 518, authored by the Valley's Senator, John Holmdahl of Castro Valley, would bar probation or suspended sentence if a person committed a felony while on probation or parole from a previous felony conviction.

Houchins said that bill would cut crimes by the "habitual criminal." He said that "in San Diego, which has a federally funded Career Criminal Program, over 55 per cent of the recidivists (repeaters) convicted in their program are either on probation or parole."

"Remember, a strong response from the people is necessary to help in the passage of public safety legislation," said Houchins. He named the members of the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee as Assemblymen Mike Roos, Mel Levine, Ken Maddy, Terry Goggin, Bruce Nestande, Paul Bannai, Julian Dixon, John Knox, and Richard Alatorre.

San Ramon safety

Traffic signal drive launched

SAN RAMON — Since children's safety is uppermost in the minds of San Ramon residents living along or near Broadmoor Drive, they are making a united effort to get a traffic control system that will insure better protection.

A group of 25 people launched their proposed plan Thursday night. They met in a private home on Broadmoor Drive to discuss ways and means of solving the problem. Members said anyone interested in attending their next meeting is welcome. It is tentatively scheduled for Sept. 14; time and place to be announced, they said.

Broadmoor Drive is a 2.2 mile stretch between Montevideo Drive and Alcosta Boulevard. There are three stop signs. They are located at Montevideo Drive, Pine Valley Road and Alcosta Boulevard. There are three 25-mile-an-hour speed limit signs; one near the Alcosta Boulevard entrance to Broadmoor Drive, the other two by Montevideo Drive. Twelve crosswalks are interspersed along the way. Signs painted on pavement warning drivers to slow down for nearby school crossings are dim and few and far between.

Members of the protest group said Broadmoor Drive had become notorious over the years for having more than its fair share of speeding, reckless drivers who endanger lives. Acts of deliberate mischief, such as driving across lawns, have also been reported by people living along Broadmoor Drive. Adults as well as teenagers have been guilty of hazardous driving, residents said.

One member said, "Luckily, no people have been hit and killed but several have been hurt. One child that I know of had to be hospitalized. A lot of animals have been killed. There has been at least one incident on every corner of Broadmoor Drive."

He said he had lived on Broadmoor Drive for seven years.

The main thrust of the protest group is to increase their numbers to the point where community and county agencies will listen and react postively. Members contended other groups had failed in previous years since not enough people joined their cause.

As a starting point, group members suggested getting petitions signed, seeking support from San

Council to review asphalt plant bid

LIVERMORE — Construction of an asphalt batch plant on Stanley Boulevard will be reconsidered by the city council tomorrow night.

Lone Star Industries, Inc. is asking approval to construct the plant on a 200 by 400 foot site on existing quarry land. The plant would produce between 100,000 and 200,000 tons of asphalt annually.

In July, the council requested that an environmental impact report be prepared. The county planning department responded to questions raised by the city and indicated that an EIR is not required.

A county expert on asphalt plant emissions said dust is the main polluter released from such an operation, but a pollution control system will collect more than 99.8 per cent of the dust. Carcinogens (cancer-causing agents) are not a problem with asphalt plants.

Fremont residents living between 500 feet and ½-mile away from a similar plant there report no odor problem. The plant has been there several years with less pollution control than the Livermore plant would maintain.

Two similar plants exist in the Valley presently. An estimated 90 per cent of the proposed product would be consumed in the Valley.

The site is in a seismically-active area, planners relate. The plant would need a permit from the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District prior to construction.

In other action, the city council will consider whether to call for bids on construction of a proposed $578,000 multi-services building to be added on top of the existing police department building on Pacific Avenue. The building could be constructed as early as September, 1978.

The city council meets Monday at 8 p.m. in department one of the courthouse, located at 39 South Livermore Ave.

County eyes mini sewer plant needs

HAYWARD — Alameda County officials soon will grapple with the problem of setting a policy for small sewage treatment "package plants," the kind which could open the door for more development in the Valley.

The county has no policy now and Carl Nipper's proposal of a package plant for his 94 proposed units on the Sunol Ridge triggered the need for one.

And the sewer freeze in the Valley has made some development outside the city limits of Pleasanton and Livermore more attractive. The package plants can also be built in the cities, freeing up sewage capacity in the big municipal plants for other uses, like commercial and industrial, observed a planning staffer. So there are big implications in the proposed policy.

The planning commission will hold its first public hearing on the draft of the proposed policy August 29 at the county public works building, 399 Elmhurst, Hayward. The draft is available from the department at that address.

Although the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board has in the past has ruled that the Valley's sewage treatment plants ought to be consolidated as much as possible, that board has participated in this study and may feel that package plants are okay, as long as they meet the discharge standards and are run properly.

State urban plan prompts county meet

HAYWARD — The state's "Urban Development Strategy" will be the focal point of yet another work session between Alameda County Planning Commissioners and department staff this week.

The two are slated for a round table discussion at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the county's Public Works Building, 399 Elmhurst St.

The "strategy" outlines land use in the state in the years to come, paying particular attention to preserving agricultural lands and "in filling" urban areas.

"Leap frog" subdivisions, which the report says have earned the state scorn and a reputation for poor air, are shelved in favor of contiguous city growth.

Planning commissioners will pass their recommendation on to county supervisors, who in turn will forward their findings to the state.

But individuals as well as planning commissions, city councils, county supervisors and associations may forward their remarks to Sacramento.

Good toss?

SR firm is world-wide

Does the name Pic-a-Dilly mean anything to you? How about Hexcel or Celesco Industries.

All are associated with or owned outright by firms with corporate headquarters here in the Valley. Pic-a-Dilly is an apparel firm and part of Atherton Industries, acquired this past week by Luckys, which has corporate headquarters on Clark Avenue in Dublin.

Hexcel is in the process of moving its executive offices to the Hartford building in San Francisco's financial district. And MBAssociates, which has a world-wide clientele, has headquarters in San Ramon.

The first in a series on Valley corporations and businesses —MBAssociates — by Al Fischer appears on Page 4 today.

San Francisco Symphony

The San Francisco Symphony will "go casual" at the Concord Pavilion this weekend when it opens the local summer season with programs spotlighting works by Beethoven and Tschaikowsky.

Edo de Waart will conduct tonight's performance, featuring an all-Beethoven program: Symphony No. 9 and the Overture to Coriolanus.

On Saturday, the all-Tschaikowsky program will include the Polonaise from Eugene Onegin, violin concerto from Romeo and Juliet and the 1812 Overture.

Tickets are $6.50 to $8.50 for reserved seats, and $5 for lawn seating. Youths under 17 are admitted for $2.50.

New police reserves' research unit forms

LIVERMORE — Livermore Police Chief Ron Lindgren has announced the formation of a new professional and technical reserve section within the police department.

Reserve officers within this section would be responsible for researching current operations and long range planning. The section was formed in response to a federal Economic Development Committee report which said, "Very few local police departments are large enough in terms of population area or taxable resources to apply modern methods in solving current and future problems."

Because Livermore faces many of the problems of larger cities without the benefit of larger resources and revenues, the reserve section was formed to utilize the technical and professional backgrounds of many of the city's residents.

Lindgren said Lyle "Terry" Cox would initially head the program. Cox has wide scientific and professioanl experience. A graduate of Livermore High School and the University of California, Cox was head of a special operations branch of the U. S. Naval Security Group Command. While on active duty he earned a law degree from the Armed Forces Institute and is a member of the Federal Bar Association and its Council on Science, Technology and the Law.

He left the Navy three years ago to return to Cal where he is working toward his doctorate in computer science. A part time employe of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, Cox has served as a consultant to the San Diego police department for the past year and a half.

For further information contact Cox at the police department, 443-0111.

Cattleman of the Year

A cattleman who has given half a century of service to quality stock and to the people who raise them, added new laurels to his list this week.

Dale Carithers has been named "Cattleman of the Year" for Alameda and Contra Costa counties. The action was taken by the California Cattleman's Association in assembly at Antioch.

Manager of the Mission Hereford Ranch near Sunol since 1921, Carithers has served as president of the California Hereford Association and of the American Hereford Association. A director with the Alameda County Fair Board Association for 29 years, Carithers has been closely identified with advancement of the cattle industry in the East Bay, particularly among the younger generations.

He is respected as one of the foremost authorities on Hereford cattle throughout the nation and has many times been invited to serve as a judge in major stock shows throughout the west.

Youth threatens shooting; loaded gun found

LIVERMORE — A 17-year-old youth who allegedly threatened to kill another person was arrested and booked on various weapons charges Wednesday. An 18-year-old man was booked on a single weapons charge in connection with the same incident.

According to police reports, the 17-year-old had been in a fight with another man and threatened to return with a gun to kill him. Police were called and stopped the suspect's truck but found no weapon.

Officers returned to the scene later to get witnesses' statements when neighbors found a gun in front of a Hanover Street residence. Police confiscated the weapon, a fully-loaded .22-caliber six-shot revolver, and arrested two suspects when they allegedly returned to the scene to find the gun apparently discarded earlier, officers said.

The 17-year-old suspect was booked on suspicion of possession of a weapon by a minor, carrying a concealed weapon, and exhibiting a firearm.

Booked on a single count on suspicion of possession of a weapon by a convicted felon was Kenneth Alden Forgason, 18, of 3006 Cabrillo Ave.

Suspects arrested in alleged TV bunco scheme

LIVERMORE — Three men suspected of attempting to sell broken television sets as new color units were arrested by police Wednesday.

Officers said the suspects approached a person inside Granada Bowl Wednesday and allegedly offered to sell a 1978 color TV for a cheap price. After declining the offer, the man phoned police.

Officers arrested three suspects near the Alpha Beta shopping center. Two broken television sets found in one suspect's car were taken into evidence.

Booked on suspicion of grand theft were Evern Brent Thomas, 22, of Springfield, Mass.; Marvin DeWayne Perkins, 18, San Jose; and James Shoals, 26, of San Jose.

Drugs found on suspect during booking

LIVERMORE — A Mines Road resident, arrested for suspicion of intoxication early Tuesday, allegedly possessed cocaine and hashish while being booked at city jail, police reported.

Officers arrested Bruce Charles Phippen, 21, of 19019 Mines Road, at the intersection of First and L streets about 1:40 a.m. While being booked, officers found a quantity of suspected cocaine and hashish in the suspect's pockets.

Phippen was booked on suspicion of possessing a controlled substance, possessing more than a small amount of marijuana, and being intoxicated in public.

Vandals cause $2,000 damage in new home

PLEASANTON — Mud, dirt and glue thrown on new carpeting in a Skylark Way home under construction Wednesday caused an estimated $2,000 damage, police reported.

Morrison Homes, owner and builder of the units under construction, said carpet glue and mud had been thrown over all the carpeting in the house. Neighbors reported hearing the voices of youngsters in the home earlier.

There are no suspects.

Car parked at Fairgrounds stripped

PLEASANTON — A 1957 Chevrolet wagon, parked at the county fairgrounds while its owner traveled with the carnival, was stripped of an estimated $1,000 in parts, police reported.

The owner, a San Mateo resident, told police that the transmission, carburetor, steering wheel, battery, and all four tires and rims had been stolen. There are no suspects.

Flanders Way home burglarized

LIVERMORE — Burglars stole a shadow box containing five antique family lockets from Mary Mahler's Flanders Way home Tuesday while she was caring for a vacationing neighbor's yard, police reported.

She returned to the house after a 45-minute absence and heard a rustling noise in the hallway, police said. She noticed the lockets missing and called police.

There are no suspects.

Parts taken from car parked on Jensen Street

LIVERMORE — Chrome side mufflers and headers were the targets of burglars who took an estimated $220 in parts from Roger Bouscal's truck bed Wednesday, police reported.

Valley obituaries

Theresa Madden

Theresa Madden, 84, a native of New York and 1½ year Pleasanton resident, died Friday in a Livermore hospital.

She is survived by husband Joseph L. Madden of Pleasanton, and sons Stephen and Joseph Madden, also of Pleasanton, and four grandchildren.

A rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Graham - Hitch Mortuary, 675 St. John St., Pleasanton.

Gertrude Stocking

Gertrude J. Stocking, 73, a native of India and Livermore resident the past six months, died Thursday in a Walnut Creek hospital.

She had been an elementary school teacher in London, England, for some 40 years, and moved here from Cranleigh, Surrey, to be near her children.

She was a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church.

She is survived by husband Hezlyn R.W. Stocking and son Bosco of Livermore, sons Joseph and Benjamin of Pleasanton, and sons Garth and Rudolph of Canada, and Conrad of England.

She also leaves daughters Celine Croxford, Amelia Leary and Anna Shepherd, all of England, and Lyette Alley and Marion Barber of Canada.

Forty-four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive.

Friends may call from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday at the Callaghan Mortuary, 3833 East Ave., Livermore.

A rosary will be said at 8 p.m. Monday at the mortuary.

Mass will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Michael's Church, followed by burial in the church cemetery.

The family would appreciate memorial contributions to The Rector, Father Roy, St. Mary's Seminary, Mysore City, India, PIN 570007.

These deceptively quiet looking intersections on Broadmoor Drive in San Ramon are where a protest group would like to have more stop signs put up to protect their childrens' safety. Group members said during the school year, Broadmoor Drive is a throng of cars, kids and bicycles. The group is protesting threats to their childrens' safety from hazardous driving on Broadmoor Drive; especially when the children are walking to and from school. The intersections are at Broadmoor Drive and South Bellemeade Drive, Northland Avenue and Westchester Drive.

Ambulance firm defends its site searching effort

PLEASANTON — Chapter six in the city's drawn out ambulance service saga opened late last week with another reading by Tri-Cities Ambulance manager Bob Lee.

This time it was Lee responding to city council charges leveled at last week's meeting.

"I don't know what 'greater effort' could have been made" in looking for a spot to house his three-member crew, Lee said in reference to charges by councilman Frank Brandes.

"We engaged every real estate agent in Pleasanton. We did everything but move into one ticy-tacky place."

Brandes and Mayor Bob Philcox claimed Lee scoffed at available housing when forced to move from Guyson Court and face hostile neighbors at a new address on Tanager Drive.

Planning commissioners, backed up by city council, effectively killed the Tanager Drive home by imposing conditions the landlord would not meet.

Brandes said the company turned down a chance to keep their ambulance in a parking spot at an apartment house near the Tanager Drive home.

Last week Lee told The Times he would be willing to keep it there, "if Brandes will pay for the insurance" on the company's expensive equipment.

"It would be an open invitation" to thieves and vandals, he said.

Lee is particularly miffed at Philcox' comments, especially when the mayor said the company has "a chip on its shoulder" and seems to be saying "the hell with (the city). It's not our job to lead Mr. Lee by the hand."

"We looked at other houses," Lee answered. "But it's very difficult to put theree people into a two bedroom house, especially when there's two men and one woman. We want a three bedroom, two bath house."

The original location in the Val Vista track, nixd by angry Guyson Court neighbors, was picked by the company's computer, Lee said, after analyzing city streets, routes and potential problems.

The Tanager Drive home at the corner of Mohr Avenue is one block off Santa Rita Road, one of the city's main thoroughfares.

All agree the location, save for angry neighbors, would have been ideal from a service point of view.

"The city of Pleasanton created a two headed monster," Lee said. "For 12 years it's operated a fire station out of a rental. It's all right for the city, but it's not okay for us. "No other city in California requires a home occupation permit for an ambulance."

"I can operate within my contractual limits from Livermore, but it's not our intention to do so . . . We want to respond to Pleasanton from Pleasanton."

Only councilwoman Joyce LeClaire has supported Lee's argument. She, too, thinks the home occupation requirement is unnecessary.

"They (city council) have created the situation, and it's up to them to correct it," Lee added.

Murray trustees eye school conversion plan

DUBLIN— An update on conversion plans for Frederiksen Intermediate School will be heard by Murray School District trustees Monday night.

The board will convene at 8 o'clock at Murray School, 8435 Davona Dr.

Monday's meeting marks the first for Dr. Jessie Kobayashi since taking over the superintendent's position full-time last Monday. Dr. Kobayashi has recently returned from vacation after winding-up duties as assistant superintendent with the Whisman School District in Mountain View.

Trustees are also scheduled to hear a food nutrition program report, school opening plans, and take action on changing the school lunch program fee structure.

Business manager Darrel Carter says that due to anticipated increases in labor and food costs for the 1977-78 school year, it will be necessary to increase the rates charged for lunches.

Amador is increasing their cost (to the Murray district) from 86 cents to 88 cents. "In view of the fact that Murray has overhead costs in addition to the above that will cause us to deficit spend, it is proposed that the full price for a student meal be raised 10 cents to 60 cents," comments Carter.

Other proposed lunch program prices include:

Adult meal, $1.25; reduced price student meal, 20 cents; adult milk, 15 cents; student milk, 10 cents.

Amador runs the cafeteria program for the Murray district.

Card of Thanks

We desire to express to our kind neighbors and thoughtful friends our heartfelt thanks for their many expressions of sympathy. Safeway strike talks delayed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal mediator has scheduled separate meetings with representatives of Safeway and Teamsters Local 302 in an effort to end a strike affecting 200 of the chain's stores in Northern California.

Jerry Finley of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, who presided at the Friday negotiations, said he needed more time to study the parties' positions.

Finley said another joint bargaining session is expected to be held not later than Wednesday.

With union sanction, some 80 members of Local 302 picketed Safeway's ice cream plant in Oakland and milk plant in San Leandro July 18.

But a wildcat strike at the Richmond distribution center and warehouse in Fremont by some 1,000 workers was not authorized. Talks were scheduled after the unauthorized pickets were pulled off.

Traffic woes spur action

Ramon Homeowners Association and Eric Hasseltine. Hasseltine is supervisor of Contra Costa County's fifth district.

Other agencies such as California Highway Patrol, Public Works officials, Sheriff's Department, Assemblyman Daniel Boatwright (D-COncord) would be contacted, group members declared.

Members proposed deterrents to hazardous driving. They mentioned getting stop signs put up on Broadmoor Drive at the intersections of South Bellemeade Drive, Northland Avenue and Westchester Drive. Others proposed getting additional police patrols; especially from the California Highway Pataol. Some said more speed limit signs or crosswalks would help.

The fact there is a high school plus elementary and intermediate schools near Broadmoor Drive compounds the problem. Children are often in danger trying to get to and from school, members said.

They pointed out most of the bad driving was done by "constant offenders."

'Man, environment' is Lab scientist's Wednesday topic

Humans must consider themselves part of the environment rather than masters of it for society to begin solving environmental problems, according to a Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory researcher, Ron Ritschard.

Ritschard is scheduled to present a program to the titled "Ecology: Man and his Environment," Wednesday, Aug. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Carnegie Building, Third and K Streets, Livermore.

Ritschard is an energy analyst in the energy and environment division of LBL and a teacher at Chabot College. His talk is cosponsored by the Valley Ecoloogy Center and the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District.

According to Ritschard, "Man now considers himself separate from others that live on this earth and because of this we have caused many environmental problems that could have been avoided."

Ritschard has said problem areas on earth include the releases of metals and radioactive compounds into the biosphere. He supports the production of biodegradable products, recyclable containers and the expanded use of solar energy.

"When man divorces himself from nature the result is ecological damage," he said.

Donations to the ecology center of $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children are being asked.

THIS WEEK'S AGENDA

Mori speaks Tuesday

State Assemblyman Floyd Mori is scheduled to address this week's meeting of the Pleasanton Democratic Club Tuesday, Aug. 16 at 8 p.m. at the Pleasanton Hotel.

Mori is slated to discuss current real property tax reform legislation. The talk is free and the public is invited.

Livermore civic panel

Three Livermore civic committees are slated to meet this Tuesday night, Aug. 16.

The Housing Authority is scheduled to meet at the Leahy Square Administration Building on Leahy Way at 7:30 p.m. The Housing Authority has also scheduled a joint meeting with the city's Social Concerns Committee for Thursday, Aug. 18 in the administration building.

Livermore's Design Review Committee is slated to meet in the at the LARPD center, 71 Trevarno Rd., at 7:30 p.m.

The Heritage Preservation Commission is scheduled to meet in the LARPD center that night at 9:30 p.m.

Toll Tax fighters

The Committee to Fight the Toll Tax will have a benefit wine and cheese tasting at the Mezzetti Volkswagen showroom, 38555 Fremont Blvd. from 3 p.m. to 6 pm. p.m. today.

Tickets are $2.50 each at the door. The organization is fighting the 25 cent increase in the Bay Bridge toll and contends it could rise to as much as $2 in just a couple of years, since its proceeds now finance part of the Metropolitan Transporation Commission budget. The group wants the bridge put back under control of the Bay Bridge Toll Authority, which promised no increase in tolls.

Register for school

William Mendenhall School in Livermore has announced it is open for new 7th and 8th grade students' registration now.

Students not yet enrolled who plan to attend this year can register at the school office, 1701 El Padro, Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 11 a.m. and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Parents of new students from outside California should bring the student's birth certificate. For further information contact the counselling office, 447-7181.

Sons of Italy BBQ

The Tri-Valley Lodge of the Sons of Italy will hold a barbeque-picnic at the Alameda County Fairgrounds, Pleasanton, on Saturday, Aug. 27.

There will be dancing, games and music, a steak dinner, entertainment and fun for youngsters and oldsters. The event is open to members and friends of the club; for ticket information, call Remo Scagliotti at 443-0141.

Woody Long

Red Carpet Realtors says it is fortunate to have Woody Long on its staff. Previous to his coming to Red Carpet, Woody, after his retirement from Granny Goose, joined the So. California firm of Walker & Lee, where he won salesperson of the month 3 out of 5 months. Woody, and his wife live in Val Vista, a Pleasanton area in which he specializes. He moved to Red Carpet to be closer to home — his first day brought a listing! Woody's hobbies include boating, golfing, fishing, and camping. He also loves the opportunity to be active in meeting people and derives satisfaction from giving satisfaction and service.

SRV plan panel has 50 bidders

MARTINEZ — The Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors coffers are full of 50 applications from people wanting to fill slots on the county's seven-member San Ramon Valley Area Planning Commission.

The cutoff date for filing was Aug. 8, according to Eric Hasseltine's office. Hasseltine is Contra Costa County's fifth district supervisor.

One position has already been filled by Andrew Young. He is presently a member of the Contra Costa County Planning Commission.

The San Ramon Valley Area Planning Commission will be replacing Contra Costa County's Planning Commission. Their authoritative powers will duplicate those of the county planning commission.

The board of supervisors will only become involved in matters pertaining to rezoning or if an appeal is made, Hasseltine explained.

The area planning commission is experimental. After two years, county voters will decide if the commission is to continue. If they vote "yes" residents will be agreeing to assume some of the financial burden of supporting the commission.

Applicants were required to be knowledgeable in planning and growth processes and be interested in the area for which they applied.

A five person selection committee will recommend applicants to the board of uio supervisors. After selections are made, orientation meetings will be held.

The following San Ramon residents applied: Franklin K. Arthur III, Ray Blasquez, Stephen W. Brown, Thomas Dominick, J.W. Friberg, Carl McCauley, John Meakin, Maurice Roche, Irene Schmedinghoff, Elizabeth Kilham, Vic F. Russo and Robert Olson.

Alamo applicants are: Evelyn R. Auch, Elizabeth Batchelor, Linda Best, Chris W. Burford, Richard Crowle, Randy Grabeel, Jack Lucey.

Also, Kirk Koning, Beverly Lane, J. Roderick Libbey, Wanda Longnecker, Angelo Lucido, Raydean Randlett, Betti Sands, Susanna Schlendorf, Joan Scott, John Thompson, Ronald Tulis, Nelson Wright, Daniel Moody, Cynthia Savelle and Linda Johnson.

From Diablo: Joseph Hohenrieder and John Olander.

Oct. 1 is the proposed starting date for new area planning commissioners.

LVHS Frosh orientation set Aug. 29

Livermore High School's orientation for freshmen and new students is scheduled for Monday, Aug. 29 at 10 a.m. in the school auditorium. After orientation they can also pick up identification cards, locker assignments and become familiar with the campus.

Scheduling information for sophmores, juniors and seniors is now being mailed, according to Livermore.s director of counselling, John W. Jeellinghausen. Freshman will receive their schedules in homeroom Sept. 7.

New students still unregistered should call 447-3112 for a counselling appointment, Jellinghausen said. The coun-selling office still has unclaimed report card from last year also.

Students wanting to earn credit for work study are asked to contact Mr. Lauritzen.

St. Michael services

Monday is the Feast of the Assumption, a special holy day for Catholics. St. Michael's Church in Livermore wiil hold its regular schedule of Sunday a masses on Monday, in addition to an extra Mass at 5:15 p.m.

The Education Ladder

There are sharp differences in the nation's educational profile, according to The Conference Board. Only 15 per cent of the 65-and-over population have had any college training. But among those between 25 and 34, 40 per cent are university-educated.

No restraints on park use this weekend — but late check is advised

No extra restrictions on use have been reported at any of the area's three East Bay Regional Parks this weekend. Park rangers point out however the decision to close or restrict use at either Shadow Cliff or Del Valle parks and the Sunol Regional Wilderness is made every morning after temperature and humidity readings are taken.

Readings are taken at 8 a.m. and rangers advise park visitors to call the parks after 9 a.m. in hot weather to learn of any closings that day.

The parks are currently open on their regular schedules, Sunol, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Shadow Cliff, 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Del Valle, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Sunol prohibits alchoholic beverages of any kind and open fires. Camp stoves are allowed. Del Valle is open for camping and fishing and barbeques are permitted. Shadow Cliff permits swimming from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. and hard liquor is not allowed though beer and wine are.

Livermore men's Slow-Pitch ball tourney today

The Livermore Area Recreation Park District will conclude its Men's B League slow-pitch softball tournament Sunday.

There will be 11 Livermore teams in the tourney. All of Sunday's games will be held at Max Baer. The championship game will be played at 3:30 p.m.

MBAssociates: World market for SR firm

SAN RAMON — What started as Aerojet General Nucleonics here 21 years ago has now evolved into an $8 million-plus operation with contracts to supply ultra-sophisticated ordnance and weaponry to nations large and small around the world.

From the quiet and pastoral setting far up Bollinger Canyon, MB Associates has reached out with its technical and engineering expertise to secure contracts with governmental agencies across this country and in all corners of the globe.

The firm, headed by chairman of the board and chief executive officer Robert Mainhardt, soldiered in the relative backwaters of this country's technical-engineering climes until the invention and use of the "Stun Gun" in 1971.

Just how this riot-control instrument, using a beanbag "bullet", came about is a story in itself. Since its initial use by authorities during the student riots in Berkeley, the gun has gained international attention, from law enforcement agencies in countries big and small — from Great Britain to Baharain.

MBA evolved from Aerojet General Nucleonics in 1960 and opened the facility on Bollinger Canyon Road. In the truest sense of a growth industry, MBA has accomplished announced two significant accomplishments just within the past 30 days.

In early July MBA announced a break through in producing plastics which have a high electrical and thermal conductivity while retaining the high tensile strengths and low costs associated with conventional glass-reinforced plastics.

MBA believes this will greatly increase the number of applications in which plastics can replace metals.

And just two weeks ago, a tentative agreement was reached concerning acquisition of the assets of Celesco Industries Ordnance Division in East Camden, Arkansas.

Celesco represents over 25 years of technical and manufacturing experience and is a leading manufacturer of infrared flare decoys, illuminating flares, squibs, ignition devices and other ordnance products.

Mainhardt says acquisition of the ordnance division will complement current MBA product development work in the field of self-protect aircraft counter-measures and greatly enhances MBA's ability to capture future ordnance product markets.

If a definitive agreement is reached, MBA will purchase the ordnance division assets for cash and notes and take over the operations on or about Sept. 1.

To back track briefly, MBA's principal business is the manufacture and sale of advanced technology systems and components in three diverse product areas: Counter-measures, special ordnance, and automated manufacturing and warehousing.

They are also engaged in funded research, development and engineering of new products selected for their future production and profit potential.

Mainhardt, a long-time Valley resident, says these programs currently involve such crucial areas as defense, coal mining and other energy sources.

Almost all of the production is done at the hillside San Ramon plant, though some project work is accomplished at MBA's Lillington, North Carolina operation.

Just what is MBA's impact on the Valley economy?

Approximately 200 persons are employed at the Bollinger Canyon facility, though that figure will increase to nearly 300 when production lines are in full-swing.

Payroll for the operation averages about $100,000 a week.

Ther personnel employed include physicists, chemical and mechanical engineers, automation and ordnance engineers and those with backgrounds in aerodynamics.

"We're on kind of an employment upswing here," Mainhardt points out in referring to advertisements for additional professional people. The firm has reached the point where it now must move its corporate headquarters from the Bollinger Canyon location, formerly a NIKE missile site, to six acres recently purchased opposite the Brass Door Restaurant on San Ramon Valley Boulevard.

Among the contracts and projects MBA has been, or is currently, involved in include building of a robot tractor for Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, construction of environmental components for a detoxification plant, jet fighter component parts for the Danish Air Force, and underground mining machinery.

"We do creative, exciting work here," Mainhardt enthuses in reeling off a list of projects which obviously call for highly-skilled, experienced and learned professionals.

In noting that MBA's biggest customer is the U.S. Department of Defense, Mainhardt points to figures that show military sales to U.S. and some 22 other allied governments amounted to slightly more than 80 per cent of the company's sales the past fiscal year.

MBA systems can be used to retrieve test weapons, assemble warheads, dispose of hazardous materials and block radar systems of hostile military defenses.

The latter, designated as radar chaff, proved one of the key developments by MBA during the past year. In addition to receipt of two orders for driverless tractor systems, MBA concluded a new distribution agreement for radar chaff with Coil Systems of Belgium, and sold bulk chaff dispensing systems to the Danish and West German governments.

MBA has also done component work for the B-1 program and is expected to undertake component projects for the cruise missile and B-52 programs.

As a result, Mainhardt is very sensitized to this country's position in the area of national defense.

"I believe that we should be very competitive in the world community," he comments.

"The philosophy I always follow is if you give a man a tank but you don't like the use he puts it to, you simply don't support or supply his logistical needs to maintain the tank."

Mainhardt sees MBA moving more and more into the field of solar energy instrumentation, as well as developing more sophisticated non-weaponry items such as underground mining machinery.

Whatever the 21st century may hold, it is apparent that the staff and management of MBA in San Ramon will be in the technical-engineering vanguard.

Canada's Capital

Named after the Outaouac (or Outaouais Indian tribe), Ottawa was founded as Bytown in 1827. Located on the Ontario side of the Ottawa River border with Quebec, the city was incorporated under its present name in 1855.

County supervisor favors more housing unit clout

OAKLAND — Independence for the county's housing authority and interviews with department heads and middle management people were suggested by Alameda County Supervisors Joseph Bort last week.

The suggestions, especially the second one, brought County Administrator Loren Enoch up short.

Bort's suggestions were prompted by the resignation June 3 of Rita Olken as director of the county housing authority. Her resignation letter has not been made public, but sources say that she felt the housing authority is being stifled under the thumb of the county's social services agency. There is no independent concern for housing planning; the mission is tied too closely to the social services welfare concerns goes the allegation.

Bort said that Olken's candid letter raises questions that perhaps other department leaders may be want to make some candid revelations to the county administrator's office about how things might be run better.

Bort suggested that the county's Director of Program Evaluation, Matt Golden, interview heads of other departments to see if they have any ideas about how things might be improved. Golden is an independent department head charged with seeing that no two county programs overlap.

Enoch objected that such criticism of the department heads might hurt morale. Bort said he agreed in principle, but thought there still should be a way to communicate the ideas and he will meet with Enoch to discuss it further.

Bort offered a wide variety of options for the housing authority's future. It could be kept under the Social Services Agency, transferred to another county department, or established as an independent county department. The board of supervisors could remain as the department's commission, an independent commission could be appointed from citizens' ranks or elected officials of cities served by the housing authority.

The Social Services Agency still thinks the housing authority should remain under its jurisdiction, though it has not come to any final conclusion about it. There will be a report on the question this week and it probably will be on the supervisors' agenda Aug. 23.

Over at the housing authority, they feel that they'd be better off with their own visionary structure instead of using the Social Services Agency as the eyes to do the planning. That way they could just stick to housing needs for all low and moderate income persons and not be tied so close to welfare people.

A source at Social Services Agency says that charge isn't true; planning is done for moderate income as well as low income. More than 1,300 units are in the low to moderate income program called Section 8, said the Social Services person.

Olken's letter of resignation has not been made public, so it's difficult to get a handle on specific issues that Bort may have had in mind when he referred to Olken's letter.

SUCCESS of MBAssociates in San Ramon has brought representatives of many national and international agencies and governments to the sylvan setting of firm's corporate headquarters in Bollinger Canyon. The firm engineers and produces ordnance components and did business in excess of $8 million last year.

UCB and LLL

A reader suggests that the relationship which now binds University of California and the nuclear laboratories in Livermore and in Berkeley is not getting fair or adequate coverage by the news media. This critic further notes that employes of the LLL are "quite happy" with their university connection.

It so happens this same happy - status - quo was conveyed by The Times page one coverage of the UC - LLL thing, on Thursday. But that is really not the issue.

The problem we news people have is in understanding what relationship the Lawrence Laboratory has with its employes, its university mentors and even with its own Washington connection. The lab management does not choose to tune us in, not at least until after there is a big flap, another tiresome protest, or a high - level probe, about three of which we have had involving the Lab and its workings, just in 1977.

Nuclear research people, even those working for the government, even those working at Livermore and Berkeley, have to accept the fact that they are no longer a law unto themselves, a super - secret club charged with defense of the world's free people, even when those people might not like the way they are being defended.

Nuclear weapons are just one tool among many to help achieve the "peaceful cohabitation" which all nations seek. Most enlightened people believe that nuclear power is possibly the worst, and certainly the last, resort in that quest.

But we still need nuclear research. And we still need the Livermore and Berkeley labs. And we will always need dedicated scientists who enjoy the challenge, the scene and the people they must work with.

We do not need an elitist nuclear group convinced it can function as a power unto itself, free of the restraints and the free flow of information imposed on all other public entities. When the Lab management learns that, we suspect the Lab staff will be much happier; and the news media will be free to report that fact.

Batch plant trade

When an application to establish yet another asphalt plant within the Valley's gravel pit scene slipped by the county planning commission with hardly a murmur of local comment, this newspaper chided sleepy city officialdom in both Livermore and Pleasanton for their indifference.

Now that the same application is back before the county again, thanks to a bureaucratic slip, the two cities have a second chance; to their credit, the locals are not making the same mistake twice.

We do not contend that a batch plant is bad on the face of it. The Valley has lived with the gravel industry and its related functions for 40 years, batch plants and all. If there is air pollution, we expect the air pollution control district to do their thing.

But there are other kinds of "environmental impacts" which bother the local communities even more. Gravel trucks, most particularly those generated by the Lone Star operation, have been clogging city streets for almost all of those 40 years. It is high time the firm found a way to connect its plant to Interstate 580, just as Kaiser and Rhodes Jamieson now use for the bulk of their traffic.

Local authorities should offer a trade: Get Lone Star trucks off of city streets, and we'll get off your back on this batch plant thing. That may not be legal, but it is political. And, given the nature of the beast, that's the way we're going to have the play The Gravel Pit Game from here on out.

Curses no Coors

Action by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors aimed at keeping Coors beer out of the Oakland - Alameda County Coliseum "because the owner of Coors is a conservative and a militant anti - unionist" is one of the more ludricous actions ever by a board often given to unusual decision - making.

In offering his resolution, Supervisor Charles ("Call me Charlie") Santana noted that "organized labor has been boycotting Coors for some time." So what? Organized labor has been picketing the Bay Area's largest food distributor for some weeks now; does the Board of Supervisors suggest we all stop eating?

Labor is at odds with industry almost every day of the year, for a myriad of reasons that people can't begin to understand. But none of those reasons are the business of the peoples' elected representatives.

Even more insidious is Santana's mention of one businessman's "conservative politics" in his bid to ban Coors. That smacks of the kind of governmental repression which this country threw out 200 years ago, and for reasons just as meaningful as our freedom today to do business, to strike, or to drink our favorite brew.

We were particularly disappointed in Supervisor Valerie Raymond's "oh, all right — Yes!" vote which gave Santana his narrow three - vote majority. We would have expected something more from our valiant champion of peoples' rights ... even when those people are brewers or beer drinkers.

Paul Tulls release

Judge Mark Eaton has dismissed traffic charges against Paul Tull "in the public interest." In so doing, Judge Eaton also overlooked some rather bitter challenges to his court's integrity. We would recommend that same "forgive and forget" response from the total community.

It has been exciting. Even fun at times. But Paul Tull's brand of political activism has not been without damage ... to others, to the community, and to himself. No campaign is worth those kinds of casualties.

Let Paul Tull now retire to the ranks of private citizen, satisfied with his one big moment on center stage, but confident there are others well qualified to take up that quest.

The week in retrospect

Muddled brew

It is heartwarming to see how concerned the Oakland 5 is over this county's socioeconomic ills.

The "5" is that tight little group sitting as the county Board of Supervisors who've recently escalated their role as ersatz guardians and dispensers of social and economic manifesto.

Initially, John George fostered the "Keep - South - Africa - connected - businesses - out - of - the - county" Caper, a venture that immediately drew a mixed bag of support and "what-for?"

Undaunted by the something-less-than-wholesale acceptance, the newlyelected supervisor stepped briskly forward into the racist quick-sand, joining the growing factotum of whites, blacks, reds, yellows and browns (Did I leave anybody out?) who had gotten their first and sunk into the depths of ignorance and stupidity.

Now comes Coors' time!

By a vote of 3-0, Supervisors last week went on record as decrying the Colorado firm's alleged discriminatory practices in employment. Seems there are a disproportionate number of us fat-cat whites when measured against the number of Mexican-Americans, Indians, orientals, blacks and women (Did I leave anybody out?).

The motion to go thumbs-down on Coors was made by Supervisor Charles Santana of Hayward. Valerie Raymond and George followed the leader on this issue.

Just why the other two "supes" didn't register their opinions on the subject is not totally clear. Could it be they like a Coors ocassionally? Or were they too busy straddling the fence to get to the business at hand!

As in the Gallo and lettuce flaps, I find the hint of boycott a prime opportunity to load-up the family larder with....non-union lettuce, Gallo wine and, now, ta-dum, Coors.

Just what business it is of county supervisors to dabble in the business of a beer company's and those of a foreign country (South Africa) has never been made clear by the Oakland 5 (Or maybe it should be the Oakland 3).

If these people are so concerned about purported county business ties to (hiss, boo!) South Africa and the quaffing of a product made by private enterprise, perhaps they should look into where the buyers and sellers of marijuana and illegal drugs in Alameda County are obtaining their "product."

Perhaps the Oakland 5 should consider "boycotting" that country's products, severing ties with them and/or recommending the border be closed down. Maybe they could recommend, via resolution, to the Border Patrol that something concrete be done about the illegal alien problem.

Would Mr. Santana, perhaps, direct a study committee on this problem? Don't hold your breath.

IN actuality, what-in-the-name-of-Loren-Enoch are the Supervisors doing by setting themselves up as the resident standards and practices committee on social, moral and economic matters!

Their job is service to the taxpayer ... not blocking a beer line or meddling in the affairs (if, in fact, South Africa has any of consequence in this county) of a foreign government

Letters to the Times

LLL and UC

Editor, The Times:

Tuesday's hearing at Almond Ave. School on the relationship between LLL and UC demonstrated to me that:

Only pacifists and those wishing to restrict our national defense or weapons of war generally or nuclear weapons in particular were opposed to the present LLL-UC connection.

While SPSE fielded four spokesmen and lodged many complaints against LLL and or UC, they were hard pressed to explain why they were complaining since they could propose no LLL affiliation which they would prefer to the present one.

A number of LLL employees who had attended the meeting with no intention of speaking felt so unrepresented by those who had made advance arrangements to testify that they felt compelled to declare their own viewpoints when offered the opportunity. Generally they were quite happy with the present LLL-UC connection.

I certainly hope that UC President Saxon's Committee was more successful at culling from the testimony these points bearing on the purpose of the hearing than were our three local newspapers.

The beef price

Editor, The Times:

I am abhorred at your editorial "The Beef Crisis" of 7 Aug. Imagine, a 17 per cent increase in only 5 years! Why that's over 3 per cent a year! ...

I can see why you use words such as "soaring" and "shot up" when referring to beef prices, especially compared to other prices over the same period. The average price paid by consumers for all goods and service is only up about twice as much as beef. And there are just a few things which increased more than average, like housing, energy, medical care, insurance, taxes ... How much has the price of your newspaper risen in the last 5 years?

What could be causing this terrible situation in which ranchers are losing money? It's called the Law of Supply and Demand ... this Law does good things for us. It tells us how to use our resources most efficiently. It is telling cattle ranchers that are losing 9 cents per head per day that they are inefficiently using our resources ... They should turn their energies in another direction, one in which society is willing to pay a preminum (profit) for their efforts. True, the supply of beef will go down and the price will go up, but the supply of the former cattleman's new product will go up and it's price down, ultimately leaving all producers with just enough profit incentive to stay in business and leaving society better off.

All of this requires no new laws, no new taxes , no new government committees — it will happen automatically! Indeed, the worst thing this "intelligent society" could do would be to try to circumvent this mechanism. The result would be the loss of the needed alternate products, and an even greater rise in the price of beef! For besides paying the cattleman enough to keep them in business, we'll also be paying the cost of government to do the job the market does for free.

Canal rip off

Editor, The Times:

Recently Rep. George Hansen (R-Idaho) charged "the current wheeling and dealing over the Panama Canel and a proposed new sea-level canel is a cleverly contrived fraud designed to benefit big international corporations by a rip-off of the American taxpayer."

Hansen said "The panic for an early treaty to authorize the giveaway of the Panama Canel is nothing more than a blatant attempt to bail out a number of big international banks who desperately want financially troubled Panama's assets shored up to protect large loans soon to mature."

His remarks take on added signifanance, when you consider that Panama is demanding 5 billion dollars for taking over the canel. Who do you suppose is going to pay for that? ...

The State Department claims — in spite of the clear wording of the Constitution (Article 4, Sec. 3) — that the Senate alone can give away property belong to the U.S. Quote "The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States..."

A multi-billion dollar rip-off of American taxpayers along with a loss of canel-use authority and national security is a terrible price to pay to shore up a red leaning dictator in Panama, to bail out big international banking interests and boost the profits of certain big multi-national corporations.

If you agree, write your Senators and representives, let your voices be heard before its to late.

round the town

Two new reports dealing with President Jimmy's popularity. "For weekend release only."

The major wire services are always admonishing editors to save something for the big weekened papers. Sunday, as you have observed, is the biggest news day of the week. Sunday editions run to 100 pages, and more. Plus several "Sunday Supplements" and a host of other inserted goodies.

"Does that much news really happen every Saturday for publication in the Sunday morning Bugle?" Of course not. Sunday's news pages are the accumulation of days, even weeks of effort. Stories appear on the wire services starting Monday ... "for weekend release only." The wires are aware of Sunday's big news hole.

Saturday's edition, you will also observe, has next to nothing ... puffery about pets, goodies about gardens, a teaser on the weekend's tv'd sports. The news crew is too damned busy writing against that huge Sunday news hole to worry about poor old Saturday!

The two reports on President Carter's popularity fall into that category ... "for release Friday. Aug. 12 and weekends ..." Wire editors from Modoc to Martha's Vineyard will know as early as Wednesday that "Jimmy Carter's home folks don't think he's gotten a swelled head." But you, dear American reader, are not to know that secret until Sunday. (If The Times had a Saturday edition, I could have divulged this urgent information relative to our leader 24 hours ago. But we rate Saturday even lower than the rest. A non - news - day deserves a non - newspaper, we always say.)

Anyhow, President Jim is not a non - person. Leastwise not in Plains. He's still the same old peanut farmer and nuclear submarine commander Plains people knew and loved.

"His head don't swell," said Rachel Clark when asked by the Associated Press to give a home - town view of their Jim. Rachel is one of those who knew Jimmy as a boy.

"He never had to be whupped," she recalled. (It is this kind of on - the - spot news reporting for which the major wire services are renowned. Makes me sick to think that you folks had to wait three, four days to gain access to this kind of information.)

There are, some say, indications that Plains is not plain anymore, not since their Jimmy went off to fame and glory. A lot of the fame has come back, in the shape of tourists, all shapes. They are changing things in Plains, too.

Jimmy's little 'ol church is divided. Literally busted in half. One side tolerates blacks and favors tourists; t'other side keeps singing the praises of some guy name of Status Quo. It's a bad scene.

But nobody blames good ol' boy Jimmy for these troubles. No sirree. Just check the Sunday papers.

It is much the same with President Jim's foreign policy. Or policies. Or whatever.

Ambassador Andy Young raises a little racial hell in some distant port. Folks in those countries get exercised. Some talk of stringing up our Andy.

But not our Jimmy. No sirree babe. "We admire your president's pragmatic approach to politics." That's the latest consensus of foreign leaders. (The survey was made just in those African and South American countries where Ambassador Andy has been doing his thing lately. And just with those natives that Andy rates as "legitimate heirs to that land." No comment, yet, from the other guys.)

Pragmatics among American presidents is something new. Startling, even. Not since Harry Truman have we had a leader who spit it right out. When the Nips failed to get Harry's message, the president dropped a couple A - bombs on 'em to emphasize his pragmatics. Quite a few Americans still haven't gotten over that kind of presidential candor.

President Jim's popularity in distant lands has never been better. That's the thrust of yet another survey. Special report by the wire services. For weekend release only. (What happens if the president's popularity goes all to hell between the time the first story was written and the official release date? These are things that drive wire service editors to drink, among others.)

That survey does not include reactions from Rhodesia. South Africa. Canada. Places where the old Anglo Saxon gang is still in charge. Hanging on. But barely. The world she is a - changin', Charlie.

Jimmy's hair is getting a mite gray. All the teeth don't show, and not quite as often. "Jimmy's got more problems now," folks down in Plains say. They've got more problems now, too, the people who are trying to hang onto the old ways. Keep Plains the "nice little 'ol town" that it had been. For one hundred years or more. Before Jimmy went off to Washington.

"We can't talk to Jimmy anymore, the way we used to," Harry Crump of Plains, Georgia says. There's a whole bunch of world leaders who are having the same problem.

Neutron bomb

Editor, The Times:

Questions

The good ol' San Francisco Chronicle never lets me down. I always find my daily uplift there, even if I have to turn to the editorial page to get it. Just the other day, the Question Man gave me my kicks.

The Question Man is that "inquiring photographer" feature they run daily. The column title once was the object of feminist scorn. Why not "The Question Person," protested feminists. Well, the reason why not is because there was a little inside joke going on, something of which the feminists, since they don't edit the Chronicle, were not aware. I don't edit the Chronicle, either, but I was aware of the inside joke, thanks to diligent reading of the Chron. Back around 1964, I read a Chronicle story about "The Question Man." Her name is Novella O'Hara, but since the Chron never gives her first name in her by-line, feminists and everyone else assumed that the Question Man was a man. Well, she's a woman and in the world of straight talk, sure, it ought to be called "The Question Woman" or "The Question Person." But the Chronicle editors want to have their little joke. I, for one, think it's fine, though it's getting a little old. I would change the column title to the non - sexist "The Questioner."

So much for today's English lesson. On to the content of the column, for I do not want you to miss the first respondee to Ms. O'Hara. He was John J. Kelley, Singing Cowboy. The picture showed a man of at least 60, sporting a white Stetson and huge Elton John sunglasses.

"I used to be a saddle tramp," said Singing Cowboy Kelley, "but ever since the sodbusters started stretching barb wire across the ranges, they ruined range riding and now I sing in the streets of San Francisco." Now, mind you, he was not a plant. O'Hara simply walked up to him in the street and found this original character, confirming once more that San Francisco is the Unusual Characters capital of the world. Oh, sure, Paris used to have its daffy poets, including the one who walked a pet lobster on a leash. But that was in the old days. Today San Francisco far surpasses the Paris of the absinthe and wormwood drinkers.

Why, just four panels down from John J. Kelley, Singing Cowboy, was Saffron Ledoux, Job - seeking Sound Engineer. Only in the 1970's, and perhaps only in San Francisco, would you find someone named Saffron Ledoux. Whether inspired by a saffron rice dish, or the plant itself, or the saffron - colored robes of the Hare Krishna street-corner dwellers, the name reaches Olympian heights, fully the equal of anything ever invented by W.C. Fields or Fred Allen. Yes, Saffron Ledoux, take your place among the meaningful names of the common folks, names with a touch of class, speaking for the unknown hopes and follies of 20 million American women yearning for a symbolic name like Saffron Ledoux.

Meg Valentine had the uncommon bad luck to follow Saffron Ledoux. In any other town — a Columbus, Ohio, or a Germantown, Pa. — the name Meg Valentine might cause a stir in a crowd. "Get many comments on Feb. 14th?" some might ask her. Or maybe, "I bet they really massacre your last name in Chicago." But outlanders are easily impressed. They go for the cheap one, the Merwyn's edition of the real thing. No, San Franciscans hold out for Saks Fifth Avenue. They know they can walk down to their civic center, camera in hand, stop any pedestrian, and come up with a Saffron Ledoux. They are secure in their knowledge of the reality available to them and a high reality it is. It is like the very matter and form which makes a newspaper great. The merely good newspaper educates and entertains its reader. But the great one, in true Zen Buddhist style, reaches without reaching. And so, too, does the The City. Now, isn't that Very San Francisco?

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My wife and I are disturbed and disgusted by her mother's plans to marry a 70-year-old man. I've always considered her a sensible, mature woman. She's been helpful with us in raising our youngsters and is the perfect grandmother. We don't know how to explain to our children her sudden interest in this man. I just can't tell you how hurt I am. — L.V.

DEAR L.V.: I'm at a loss to understand why you should be so hurt. Is it because you dislike the man she's planning to marry and don't feel he's worthy of her? Or, do you find it difficult and "disgusting" to think of an older person's having romantic and sexual feelings? If it's the latter, then you're behaving like an adolescent and being quite selfish.

Adolescents often find it difficult to accept the fact that their parents are interested in sex. They often prefer to imagine that the only time their parents had intercouse was when their children were conceived. These childish attitudes are not uncommon in adults who find it difficult to accept sexuality in their aging parents.

I suggest you and your wife think about your attitudes toward sex and try to develop more tolerance. Healthy people can have sexual drives as long as they live.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: We're expecting our first baby soon. I'm determined that whether it's male or female it will grow up liberated and not beaten down by the prejudice I felt when I was growing up. My parents' attitudes about what little girls should and should not be had a profound and, I believe, damaging effect upon my life. I've talked with my husband about this and he says he understands. Do you think any man can avoid being a chauvinist when the chips are down? — U.B.

DEAAR U.B.: Yes, I do, but I think it's often a slow process of reeducating males. Women can have just as rigid, restricting and inhibiting a view about sexual roles. This not only serves to prevent daughters from fulfilling their potential, but is damaging to sons and may stand in the way of their ability to understand and relate to women.

Some recent research indicated, however, that sterotyping begins almost at their birth. Tufts University psychologists questioned 30 sets of parents within 24 hours after the birth of their first child.

They were asked to describe the baby and fill out a questionnaire. Parents of daughters found their babies significantly softer, finer featured, littler and more inattentive than did parents of boys. This was true of both mothers and fathers, but the fathers went even further listing greater differences. Parents disagreed on only one item: Mothers thought sons were more cuddly and fathers felt daughters were.

Next to the data of the parents, they listed hospital records and doctor's findings. Doctors found no real differences between the 15 males and the 15 females.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a diabetic and have been for 10 years. I use 30 units of Lente and eight units of Ultralente insulin each morning. I have been called a yo-yo diabetic because my monthly blood test results in a count from a low of 55 to as high as 400.

Even though I am extremely careful of what I eat and get what I consider a reasonable amount of exercise, the numbers come up high and this is most alarming to me. My doctor says not to worry, but I do.

Is there a guaranteed diet to follow? I hear so much about fructose, lactose, dextrose and all the rest that I am confused. What causes the extremes in sugar count even though the diet doesn't change?

I'm 51, female, 5 feet tall and weigh 120 pounds. Since I'm a shorty I would like to take off some weight but this is difficult being a diabetic and subject to insulin shock. How can I lose weight without the risk of insulin shock?

My diet consists of fish, chicken, vegetables, and an occasional lamb or beef meal. Ten years ago my weight was 102 pounds. Thank you for any advice you can give.

DEAR READER — A diabetic's life has to be fairly well regulated in terms of diet, activity, and even exposure to stress to have a constant blood sugar level if the diabetes has progressed to the point that insulin must be used.

The best advice I can give you with your story is to eliminate all starches, and all sweets. Give up milk, too. Why? To get rid of all the ready sources of glucose. All of the starches and sugars are converted to simple sugars (monosaccharides) in the small intestine before they can be absorbed. If you consume foods that are rapidly converted to single sugars — which give rise to peaks in blood glucose — you will have more trouble in managing your diabetes.

Get your carbohydrates from leafy vegetables and those with bulk in them. Whole pulpy fruits may be all right, particularly apples. To follow such a diet you must get some additional bulk someplace. You may be able to use some whole wheat bread or simply eat some but limited amounts of cereal containing bran. You will also need a replacement for calcium that you should get in your milk.

The resulting diet that severely limits starches and sugars will be slowly absorbed from the small intestine. That will help to avoid the peaks and valleys in blood sugar, and may make it possible to regulate your insulin dosage to a better level for you. Some insulin taking diabetics have been able to decrease the amount of insulin required markedly by eating a diet dependent upon raw fruits and vegetables, plus meats but devoid of starches and sugars.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-11, Diabetes, Diagnosis, Prevention and Management. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. As the letter stresses, consistency is important. Even your exercise must be about the same. To help you with your weight control I would suggest you use repeated short walks spread out over the day and then stick to that schedule.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW DOES A FIREFLY MAKE ITS LIGHT?"

LINDA KING
ELIZABETH, NJ

A. A FIREFLY'S LIGHT COMES FROM A SPECIAL ORGAN ON ITS BODY. LUMINESCENT CELLS WITHIN THE ORGAN PRODUCE CHEMICALS WHICH JOIN WITH OXYGEN TO MAKE THE LIGHT

On a summer evening, you may see the bright, little flashes of a firefly's ight.

The firefly is not really a fly; it is a beetle. Its blinking yellow light comes from a special luminescent organ which is usually located at the end of its bodt.

To flash its light, the firefly admits air into its luminescent organ through tiny openings. Inside the organ are light-making chemicals. When oxygen in the air joins with the chemicals, energy is released in the form of light.

A firefly doesn't burn in your hand if you catch it.

Fireflies find their mates by flashing their lights. As he flies about at night, the male flashes his light. The female seldom flies, but perches on a blade of grass near the ground. When she sees the male's blinking signa; she flashes her own light.

The fireflies flash their lights until they finally meet.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Science endeavors to substitute facts for appearances. Deceptive play tends to substitute appearances for facts."

Jim: "This is really important in duplicate bridge where a trick gained is likely to be a top score earned."

Oswald: "Every South player wound up in four hearts. Since both the heart and spade finesses were on, every South player except one poor unfortunate, made five. That unlucky one was the victim of a deceptive play by East."

Jim: "This East cashed his two diamonds and looked around for new worlds to conquer. He saw that his king of hearts was trapped and noted that if West held the king of spades that card would be dead also. Could he do anything about either finesse?"

Oswald: "He decided that he could so he led his three of spades. South played the ten and overtook with dummy's jack when West played low. Then he led the jack of trumps from dummy."

Jim: "Needless to say, East did not cover, but South went up with the ace to guard against a possible spade ruff. Then he conceded a trick to the king of hearts, made his contract, but got no match points since all other declarers took the heart finesse and made one more trick."

INSIDE CHINA
By DEAN S. LESHER

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS ON PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Our first surprise came at the airport immediately after landing at Peking. We were permitted to take pictures of the airport building and of planes.

We had been told that we would not be permitted to take these pictures nor to take pictures from trains. On each of the six train trips, we took numerous pictures of the countryside and the villages and not once were we stopped.

The only time we were stopped from taking pictures was at a small airport in the interior of China where a number of old fighter planes were mothballed. There may have been some kind of a fighter plane base nearby that led to this restriction.

On the way to Peking, we were amazed at the number of small mud huts along the main streets. These were described to us as earthquake houses where people could go in the event of an earthquake near Peking. The area north of Peking suffered 7 major quakes in 1976 and Peking felt some of the shocks.

Some of us gained the impression that these earthquake rooms or small buildings were being used as an extra house by the families. There was considerable work being done on them throughout the city and this seems to indicate that they were being made habitable for weekends and other uses.

The almost complete absence of automobiles was a very striking impression that remained with us throughout the trip.

There were numerous trucks of all kinds and sizes and quite a number of buses. There were very few passenger cars, and all seemed to be owned by the government.

Chinese men seem to smoke cigarettes almost all the time. I was amazed at the number of lighted cigarettes we saw.

On every occasion, whether it was a briefing, a tea or at a meal, cigarettes were made available to us. We found packs of them in our hotel rooms along with candies and fruits.

There appear to be one major and several minor brands of cigarettes in China. The most popular brand and the one we found everywhere bears the trade name "Chunghwa." They were usually in soft packs although occasionally there was a hard pack with a top opening similar to what we have in the United States.

In each instance, the pack contained 20 cigarettes, the same as in America.

In the southern part of China we ran across two other brands. One was called "Cocopalm" named after a cocoanut palm tree grown in considerable quantities in southern China. Also around Canton we ran into a filter tip brand called "Golden Orchid." This appears to be a rather deluxe brand and costs more than the ordinary brands of cigarettes.

There is another filter brand called "Phenix," made in Shanghai. Small boxes containing five of these filter cigarettes are served without charge to passengers on planes within China.

I saw a few packages of a brand known as "Tianqi" around central China. Still another brand is known as "Shuangxi" and a cardboard package containing 10 of these was also distributed free on planes on which we flew within China. The airline owned by the People's Republic of China uses the initials CAAC. (Civil Air Administration of China).

We did not see any women smoking in public. They may do so in private.

The clothing worn in northern China is very, very drab. The men wear the typical Mao jacket with 5 buttons and a high semi - stiff collar. The women wear a feminine version with three buttons and a small V - neck at the top. There are three shades of blue, one shade of gray and two shades of green. The army preempts the use of the lighter green with a red trim.

The jackets are in a number of qualities with the best quality worn only by the most important people and purchased by foreign visitors. The weights range from very light for summer use to a lined jacket for winter use.

In the northern part of China there is very little color worn on the streets except for the clothing of children. Throughout China, children are clothed in very colorful suits, dresses, blouses and sweaters.

In southern China, particularly around Canton, where it is quite warm four or five months of the year, the women tend to discard their jackets and to wear blouses of many colors. People who visit only the Canton area may come away with the impression that there is a great deal of color worn by women throughout China. This is not the situation in northern and central China.

Perhaps the western influence, which Canton receives from visitors from Hong Kong and from people attending the spring and fall showings of the Canton exposition and fair, may account in part for women around Canton wearing more colorful clothing that looks more like western garb.

There are beauty parlors in the hotels visitors use in China but apparently they are intended for use only by foreigners. We did not see any native women inside these beauty parlors.

We did not see any women in China with make-up except for those performing on the stage. There the make-up was perhaps overdone and was typical of the kind of make - up one would expect at a Chinese show.

China makes three kinds of passenger cars. Two of them are very small, non - luxurious types, primarily sedans. These are made in a small factory in Shanghai.

There is a third model, a longer black limousine type of car. It has better upholstery and appointments than the other two. It is made in a large factory in northern China which is said to be the largest factory producing motor vehicles in that nation.

The primary emphasis on motor vehicles is trucks. They deliver foodstuffs, factory production, merchandise and so forth, from one community to another beyond the railroad system and beyond the canal system.

The trucks are of many kinds and many sizes ranging from small vehicles pulled by a universal type of small loud noisy tractor to huge trucks with large trailers behind them.

After trucks, the emphasis on motor vehicle production is on buses of several sizes. These are used for public transportation within cities, between cities, and between cities and smaller communities. However, most passenger traffic between Chinese cities is by railroad.

There must be millions upon millions of bicycles in China. You find them everywhere. The streets and the cities are teeming with them, and bicycle traffic here is heavier than in any other area of the world.

In China, the average family has difficulty buying a bicycle and then only one bicycle to a family. The bicycle is obviously used for many purposes besides individual transportation. It is used to haul all sorts of things over fairly long distances. It is the primary method of transportation used by individual families.

Every ablebodied person in China over age 16 is expected to work. Work is eight hours a day and six days a week.

People engaged in agriculture seem to work much longer hours. We found them in the fields as early as 5 a.m. and as late as 7:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. They appear to take regular rest periods out in the fields.

The women work alongside men in every occupation. You find them in factories, in hotels, in offices, in communes, working on road construction, moving merchandise, as nurses, doctors, school teachers, drilling wells and doing every conceivable kind of manual labor.

We are asked if people can change from one line of work to another. The answer is that this can be done, but it is rarely done. It requires the approval not only of fellow workers, but also of the government. In China the government means the Communist Party.

We were told that one of the few times when approval is likely to be granted to move to another part of the country is when a daughter or a son marries and wishes to join the family of his or her spouse.

The morals in China are very high. This applies not merely to sex, but also to protection of personal property. The Chinese are honest and can be trusted. They are having problems in certain cities with some youth who pilfer.

Women are ordinarily not permitted to marry until they are 25 years of age and men are usually not permitted to marry until they are 28.

We inquired as to whether there was much sexual activity outside of marriage and were told even the question was shocking. They said absolutely not and seemed surprised that we might think that any extramarital sex might take place.

We concluded that the high moral standards, plus the fact that the young people work so hard and so long, make this an acceptable explanation for the lack of sex before marriage.

The living quarters of the Chinese are very small, sparse and with little furniture. We did not see any small appliances and no refrigeration anywhere in a home or apartment. We did see a few radios and now and then, a bicycle.

The cooking facilities and utensils are extremely primitive. In apartment areas, four or five apartments share one kitchen and one bathroom.

We saw almost no dogs or cats. There were very few flies around and few mosquitoes. Evidently, around Canton and southern China, they have mosquitoes during the summer because over the top of the beds was mosquito netting hanging from the ceiling sufficient to enclose each bed. The material was heavier than cheesecloth with finely woven threads.

The streets were very clean and there were containers around to hold paper and debris. Apparently, littering is forbidden.

We saw no beggars, drunks or beatniks. The Chinese are clean shaven. The women wear their hair straight and short or long and in braids.

The Chinese are very curious and gathered by the hundreds around us whenever we stopped. They stared at us and usually their expression did not change even when we smiled.

Very few of them would permit their pictures to be taken. Most would turn their backs and usually run away whenever a camera was pointed toward them.

There is no tipping in China. A tip is considered an insult. The Chinese also refuse to accept gifts until at least they get to know you and then will accept only a very small gift as a token of friendship.

We saw relatively few individual soldiers despite the huge army. We saw soldiers in formation only on two occasions, and the formations were not large. At some hotels, there were soldiers at the gates with rifles complete with bayonets.

We did see many soldiers being brought back from parade areas in trucks. We saw quite a number of parades in process or being formed or dispersed.

The Chinese stage many parades in which thousands and tens of thousands of people participate. They march in groups and divisions with banners indicating what group or division it is.

All such parades celebrate some notable occasion in the history of the Communist Party and its present program. Parades thus serve as a means of reminding the people of certain events and epics and of keeping their enthusiasm stirred up on behalf of the Party goals and programs.

There are so many things made in China that are beyond the financial ability of the people to purchase for themselves. Thus, most of the production of the handicraft factories and of the silk factories is intended for sale to foreigners.

These sales are accomplished to a small extent in Friendship Stores and some specialty shops within China. The customers of the Friendship Stores are the foreign people visiting these cities. Most sales must be through the Canton Exposition and Fair or by exports.

Prices are fixed all over China. We noticed a slight variation in prices, however, with respect to certain products of the handicraft factories.

For example, some of the products were cheaper in the city where they were made than they were in Shanghai or Peking. The difference in price was not great and could have been accounted for by the cost of transportation.

We tried to identify ourselves by using plastic American flag pins on the lapels of our collars and our coats and jackets. These seemed to excite much curiosity but I doubt whether more than a very few people were aware of what our country was.

At a number of hotels, people who served us, asked for these pins to wear on their jackets.

The Chinese are great for pins of all sorts and we came away with quite a collection of pins and metal pendants from the major cities. Frequently, the subject matters were panda bears, buildings and scenes typical of the particular area.

One major impression is that China is huge and its people one great mass of humanity. China is one series of enigmas, contrasts and paradoxes after another.

However much you have traveled, you are not prepared for what you see and hear. The more you contemplate your trip, the more you yearn to return to verify your impressions.

Rhodesia black rule plan drawn

WASHINGTON AP — The United States and Britain on Saturday completed a detailed plan for bringing black rule to the breakaway colony of Rhodesia in 1978 through a "oneman, one-vote" formula. Final proposals were adopted at a luncheon attended attended by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, British Foreign Secretary David Owen and British Prime Minister James Callaghan at Chequers, Callaghan's country estate outside London.

Vance, in a news conference aboard his jet on the way home, provided a few sketchy details. He said a constitution has been prepared and that there would be a development fund to ease the transition from white minority to black majority rule.

"We believe the plan is fair and reasonable," Vance said. "We believe it could commend itself to international opinion."

Ron's Auto Service intends to stay on South Main St.

PLEASANTON — Friends — and patrons — of Ron's Auto Repair need not worry. Ron Reasoner won't be going anywhere for the next two and a half years.

Upset at reports the city planning commission has rezoned the land to accommodate a proposed — but not yet drawn — commercial center, he's been bombarded with customer calls asking where the 25-year Pleasanton automotive veteran will be going.

"My intention is to stay here until the lease is up," he told The Times. "I've got two and a half years to work."

Reasoner's lease would not be renewed, local realtor Mark Gerton told planning commissioners last week, thus setting off the storm.

Gerton and landowners John Edgren Sr. and Jr., successfully petitioned the commission to broaden the site's zoning from "institutional and office" land to a "central commercial" district.

Gerton said he has developers in the wings who want to raise and rebuild on the site. But to date there's nothing on paper.

The concerned phone calls "have been upsetting my work load," Reasoner said.

He's run the auto service for the past two and a half years, and had worked for John Edgren as head of Edgren's Chrysler dealership service department for 23 years.

"I've got my cards in here, too," he said. "Somebody's got to come up with something" before he'll abandon his lease and a well established business.

Livermore woman killed in car crash

LIVERMORE — A 34 - year - old Livermore woman was killed and six persons were injured Thursday when two cars collided, sending one into a tree on Arroyo Road.

Pronounced dead at Valley Memorial Hospital was Marcelina Green of 752 Joyce St.

According to the highway patrol, Mrs. Green was in a car driven by her husband, Bruce D. Green, 34. A second vehicle, driven by Sammie Noble, 20, of 788 South Livermore Ave., was following the Green's car northbound on Arroyo Road near Vancouver Way.

Noble pulled out from behind and attempted to pass on the left, a highway patrol spokesman said, when a car coming the opposite way forced him to swerve back into the northbound lane. Noble was allegedly driving at too high a rate of speed and turned back sharply, the spokesman said, hitting Green's car. It smashed into a tree.

Noble was listed in stable condition in the intensive care unit at Valley Memorial Hospital. A passenger in his car, Audrey Jean Feighner, 15, of 1062 Lambaren Ave., is in satisfactory condition. Two other passengers in Noble's car were treated for minor injuries and released.

Bruce Green and his daughter, Janette, 5, were treated for minor injuries and released.

The highway patrol spokesman said a complaint alleging Noble was driving too fast is being forwarded to the district attorney's office.

Health unit invites moms expecting

PLEASANTON — A free series of classes for expectant mothers is being offered again in September at the Valley Health Center, 3730 Hopyard Road, room 102 in Pleasanton.

The Alameda County Health Care Services Agency is sponsoring the classes, Dr. Carl Smith announced. He is public health director.

Topics covered include nutritional needs of the expectant mother, care of the newborn, infant feeding, labor and delivery and breast feeding.

Littler Bogeys, still four up

PEBBLE BEACH — Gene Littler finally turned human and made a bogey but the quiet, self-contained veteran stretched his lead to a commanding four strokes Saturday as frustration and anger struck down his challengers in the third round of the PGA National Championship.

Littler, whose machinelike precision had taken him through two rounds without a bogey, made three of them this bright, sunny day, and he had to work hard for a two-underpar 70 and a 206 total.

That's 10 shots under par for three rounds over the drought-damaged but still beautiful 6,806-yard Pebble Beach Golf Links and four in front of the game's most famed and feared performer — Jack Nicklaus.

The usually unemotional Nicklaus, who shot a two-underpar 70, cast an angered glance aloft — it was unclear whether toward the blue skies or a television tower — after making bogey on the 16th and angrily tossed his ball to caddy Angelo Argea following another bogey on the 17th.

He finished with a 210 total, six under par going to Sunday's final round of the title he wants so desperately — a record matching fifth PGA crown and one that would end his string of frustrations at the hands of Tom Watson.

Watson, who beat Nicklaus in dramatic, head-to-head confrontations in the British Open and Masters, finally got his own clubs back but could do no better than a 71 that left him six strokes back at 212.

Former Masters champion Charles Coody came on with a 70 and took third place at 211.

Watson was tied with former U.S. and Canadian Open champion Jerry Pate, George Cadle, Lanny Wadkins and Dr. Gil Morgan. Pate shot a 69, Cadle and Morgan, a non-practicing optometrist, had 70s, and Wadkins matched par 72.

Jerry McGee, only two strokes out of the lead after 36 holes, finished with a 77 and 215.

USC denied scholarships

WALNUT CREEK — Scholarships for three University of Southern California athletes must be counted against the school's swimming quota rather than against the soccer program, the Pacific-8 Conference ruled in a decision announced Friday.

USC had wanted to give the three high school standouts — Doug Frazier, Michael Kelly and Kirk McGowan — soccer scholarships, a sport in which "they had established no previous performance record," said Wiles Hallock, Pac-8 executive director.

"USC's representatives have been most cooperative throughout the entire inquiry into this sensitive issue and they are taking steps internally to comply with the 11-scholarship equivalency limit in swimming," Hallock said.

Chicago outplays listless Raiders

OAKLAND — Randall Burkes was in the right place. So was Mike Davis, but at the wrong time.

Burkes, a second-year receiver out of Louisville College, ducked under a sixty-yard bomb from Chicago quarterback Mike Phipps with just 1:38 remaining, clearing the way for a 20-13 victory over the Oakland RAiders here last night.

Davis, a Raider rookie from Colorado, hardly knew what hit him as Phipps' perfect pass hit Burkes on a dead run, three steps ahead of the trailing cornerback down the right sideline.

The Bears had tied the contest, 13-13, with 8:06 left in the final quarter on a three-yard run by gifted Walter Payton.

Chicago, carrying a 1-1 pre-season record into the contest, stung the Raiders' first defensive line-up early with an impressive 69-yard ten-play touchdown drive.

Harper, following Payton, bowled over from a yard out over guard Noah Jackson for the Bears' first score with 9:35 showing in the first quarter. Bob Thomas' conversion was perfect.

Two Oakland penalties, coupled with some cagey running by the thirdyear pro Payton, sparked the Bears' opening march. The Jackson STate graduate sliced his way for 26 and 9 yards while Harper chipped in with nine yards on four carries.

Chicago rushed for 60 yards on its only possesion in the quarter while Raider rushers gained 22.

Oakland struck early in the second quarter in classic Stabler operation. The free-wheeling southpaw left the game after engineering a seventeen-play eighty-yard drive, winding up on van Eeghen's six-yard burst up the middle with 11:17 showing on the board. Earl Mann cleared the uprights on the PAT to knot the score.

The Raiders ripped the Bears' defense for seven first downs during the march, while the "Snake" found receivers for sizable gains. He hit van Eeghen for 11, Banazak for 14, Branch for 15, Siani for 20, and Caspar for another 21.

Oakland held a 10-7 lead at the half after Benirschke kicked a 27-yard field goal as the first half ended.

Rae connected on two passes to Caspar for 26 yards while finding Siani and Bradshaw on ten-yard tosses.

The Raiders rolled for 237 yards in the first half while Chicago collected 113. Stabler, cool at the controls, was 8-of-9 for 81 yards in just over one quarter of work. Rae, replaced by David Humm with five minutes gone in the third period, finished-with an 8-of-13 performance and 97 yards.

Payton broke loose for 57 yards on ten carries to pace Bear rushers at the half. Chiacago starter Bob Avellini was three-of-seven for 42 yards in his first half showing.

Rolf Benirschke, the U.C. Davis grad who booted three extra points and a field goal last week, apparently has won a job with the Raiders.

In a surprise move, Oakland placed Fred Steinfort on waivers along with rookie safety Ed Howard from Sam Jouston State.

Reds win, 3-1

Giants have place in the sun

SAN FRANCISCO — Way out west at Candlestick Park, where Big Sur fire smoke is non-existent and the sky is a deep blue, the sun plays roulette with major league oufielders.

Just ask Jack Clark. But nicely.

The rookie Giant rightfielder lost a routine fly ball hit by Johnny Bench in the sun with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning yesterday, the bags clearing and the Reds backing away with a 3-1 win in front of 16,835 dazed spectators.

The tragi$c scene ended a day of non-breaks for the Giants, who blew another chance to move back into third place in the NL West, dropping a game behind Houston looking at each other. I knew then that he had lost it."

Clark just stared into his locker, back turned away from the quiet Giant clubhouse, and quietly admitted "It was my fault. I saw it when it left his bat. I called him (second-baseman Andrews) off, then I lost it. I thought maybe I'll just keep drifting and make a diving catch."

Altobelli sympathized with his rookie outfielder. "It's not like he didn't catch the ball, he just didn't see it," Altobelli said. "To battle for 2 hours and then have to lose a game like that...especially the way the guy pitched," continued Altobelli.

Barr also stood up for Clark. "It's not Jack's fault. Sometimes you can say a player misplayed it+ but Jack didn;t see it at all," explained Barr.

and still more behind the second-place Reds.

A doubleheader sweep is a near-must for the Giants today if they wish to catch the Reds before the 1977 season closes.

Jim Barr absorbed the loss for the Giants, his ninth in 20 decisions, while Dale Murray, 6-2, pitched to one batter in the eighth after starting pitcher Paul Moskau was hit in the thumb on a line drive to pick up the win.

Barr, looking as sharp as he has all season, waltzed into the ninth on a three-hit shutout, but surrendered a two-out, bunt single to Ken Griffey on a ball perfectly laid down the third-base line.

Third-baseman Darryl Evans originally planned to make an effort to throw Griffey out, but Barr called him off, hoping the ball would roll foul.

"I saw the ball going down the line, and with Griffey's speed, I called Darryl off," explained Barr, who didn't seem to regret his decision.

Joe Morgan then laced a single to left to keep the rally alive and prompt a visit to the mound from manager Joe Altobelli.

Amid boos from the crowd, Altobelli opted for southpaw reliever Gary Lavelle with the lefthanded-hitting Dan Driessen coming up. Driessen had nailed a pair of deep fly balls in his two previous trips against Barr.

Pinch-hitter Bob Bailey, a right-sider, drew a walk from Lavelle and Bench followed with his shot to right, a skying ball that Clark ran quickly in on, covering his head with his glove as he lost it in the sun.

"It was like one of my golf shots: well-placed," joked Bench after the game amid needling from his teammates. "I looked up and saw everybody The Giants scored their only run in the second inning, despite having a myriad of chances throughout the game. Tim Foli slapped a one-out double and Barr drove him home an out later with a double he poked past third base and into the left-field corner.

Three double plays hurt the Giants, who put runners at first and third with no one out in the first but failed to score when Gary Thomasson struck out and Derrel Thomas was thrown out at the plate on a delayed double-steal attempt.

A's finally win, defeat Baltimore

BALTIMORE — Rookie Jerry Tabb drilled two singles and a double, driving in four runs and pacing Oakland to a 9- 6 victory over Baltimore Saturday night than ended the A's club record losing streak at 14 consecutive games.

The loss ended a five-game Baltimore winning streak and dropped the Orioles 2 games behind Boston in the American League East.

Manny Sanguillen and Tim Hosley had two RBIs each as the A's built a 7-0 lead and then held off a late Baltimore comeback.

Rookie Rick Langford posted his eighth victory against 13 losses and struck out 11 Orioles before leaving in the seventh inning. Bob Lacey relieved and pitched into the ninth inning when Lee May belted his 18th home run and Dave Skaggs had a double.

Chargers roll over 49ers

SAN DIEGO — Joe Washington scored two touchdowns to lead the San Diego Chargers to a 32-13 National Football League preseason victory over San Francisco's winless 49ers Saturday night.

Washington, a second-year running back from Oklahoma who was sidelined last season with a knee injury, scored in the second period on an 89-yard punt return and on a three-yard run in the fourth quarter.

The 49ers took a 10-0 lead 44 seconds into the second quarter on a five-yard pass from Jim Plunkett to Jim O'Bradovich after Steve Mike-Mayer booted a 36-yard field goal late in the opening period.

With 33 seconds left in the half, Tom Wittum punted to Washington, who grabbed the ball on the Chargers' 11-yard line and sped untouched to score and give San Diego the lead for good.

The Chargers untracked their offense quickly in the third quarter with quarterback James Harris, playing in a San Diego uniform for the first time Saturday night, directing an eight-play, 67-yard march climaxed with a four-yard Harris scoring throw to tight end Chuck Bradley.

Watson's clubs

A human error

PEBBLE BEACH, — The Ram Golf Corp., said Friday that a human error in the manufacture was responsible for the clubs used by Tom Watson and a number of other pros being declared illegal in the Professional Golfers Association championship here.

"The Ram specifications for grinding these special clubs call for grooves in the clubface 35 thousandths of an inch in width, the size allowed by U.S. Golf Association rules," Allen Hansberger, president, announced from the company's headquarters in Elk Grove Village, Ill.

"In tracing the inaccuracy of these particular clubs it was found that while specifications conformed to USGA rules, the club face was inadvertently ground a fraction less."

Second year pro George Burns brought the problem to the surface when an examination showed his Ram clubs to be illegal during the Greater Hartford Open Tournament last week. He withdrew. This brought about an inspection of other Ram equipment — voluntarily on the part of the players involved — and resulted in clubs used by Watson, Ray Floyd and Gary Player among others, being thrown out.

Micrometer tests showed defections in other clubs by other maufacturers, largely due to wear, and half-dozen other players had their tools ruled illegal.

After Watson had an old set of clubs made by a different compay flown from his home in Kansas City, these clubs also were found to be illegal. The Masters and British Open champion borrowed an old set from fellow tour member, Roger Maltbie, and shot a first round 68, four under par.

Hansberger said that an investigation showed that only custom-made clubs used by tour professionals were affected and all other clubs by the company met the USGA standard. He said clubs with discrepancies would be replaced immediately.

Connors nearing Clay Court title

INDIANAPOLIS — Defending champion Jimmy Connors overpowered Australian Phil Dent 6-3, 6-1 Saturday to move into position for his third U.S. Clay Court men's singles title.

Connors meets Spain's Manuel Orantes, who won here in 1973 and 1975, in the battle for the championship Sunday.

Orantes, seeded second behind Connors, avenged a recent Davis Cup loss to Hungary's Balazs Taroczy in the other semifinal, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.

South Africans Linky Boshoff and Ilana Kloss battled Mary Carillo of New York and Wendy Overton, of Boca Raton, Fla., for the women's doubles crown Saturday night.

Six-time winner Nancy Richey played Laura DuPont for the women's singles championship Saturday night.

Connors jumped to a 4-0 advantage in the opening set and the Australian broke his service only once.

Connors repeated his performance in the second set, winning the first four games before Dent held service. Connors then held his service and broke Dent's to win the match.

Road is rough to Max Patkin

OMAHA, Neb. — Baseball's funny man is not laughing on the inside.

Max Patkin's job is to make people laugh. But the goosenecked, rubber-faced comedian doesn't enjoy that job as a baseball clown.

"It's a lonely, lousy life, always traveling by yourself," he lamented. "It's the travel that kills me."

Patkin, 57, has been entertaining baseball audiences for 31 years. Now the thrill is gone. For one thing, his act seldom changes. He fills in the blanks of a script before the game and gives it to the public address announcer.

The act is pure slapstick. He wears a too-tiny baseball glove. He dances. He shows the home team how to hit until the umpire throws him out of the game.

He covers himself with dirt in the third base coaching box. On cue, one of the players dumps a bucket of water on him.

He trips the first baserunner who gets a walk. In his catching routine, he calls a conference with the pitcher and lays a wet kiss on the pitcher's ear.

It's all in the script—but the crowd doesn't seem to know the difference and probably wouldn't mind if it did.

"I've been trying to quit for the last seven or eight years," the recently divorced Patkin said. Why doesn't he? The money, of course, ranging from $200 to $500 per appearance. This season he has booked 75 of them.

While he may not enjoy his job, he's proud of his record. "In 31 years of one-nighters, I've never missed a performance. That's over 4,000 performances covering four million miles," he said.

At a recent Chicago White Sox game in Comiskey Park, Patkin was introduced by announcer Harry Caray and asked to take a bow. Instead, he hopped atop the dugout and did a dance.

Later Patkin met Kansas City Royals owner Ewing Kauffman, known for his bright sports coats. "I was gonna try and buy it from him," Patkin said, "but it would've made me look like a clown."

Governor's skipper hot

MEADOW LANDS — Governor's Skipper shattered the world record for 3-year-old pacers and won the final heat of the $120,452 Adios Saturday at the Meadows.

Driven by John Chapman, Governor's Skipper knocked more than a second off the world record for five-eighthsmile tracks in winning the first heat of the race in 1:54 4-5.

The grandson of Adios, the famed pacing stallion for whom the race was named, then paced the championship mile in 1:56 3-5, beating challenger Nat Lobell by a head.

Crash, handled by Billy Haughton, finished third, 3¾ lengths behind the winner.

High scorers play in LARPD

High-scoring games were the rule of the day as the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District Slow-Pitch B League men's softball Tournament got underway yesterday.

All the games were played at Max Baer Park and May Nissen Park.

Defending champion Farmers' Insurance topped The Professionals, 7-3 to advance to today's semi-final contest against Matador's Lounge. Matador's Lounge blasted the Godfathers, 15-9, and Truckin 16-5 to make the semi-finals.

In the other semi-final game Round Table will take on Red Baron. Round Table had a bye in the first round but defeated King's Brigade, 8-5 to reach the semi's. Red Baron also had a first-round bye but smashed Fil-Circle, 9-3 in the second round.

The Professionals smashed Robles, 11-1 before losing to Farmer's Insurance.

Matador's Lounge smashed 39 hits in its two victories. It had 22 hits against Truckin and 17 against the Godfathers.

Dan McDonald and Ken Hagerty each clubbed home runs for Matador's in its victory over Truckin. McDonald had five hits in that contest. Hagerty belted four and scored four times.

Against the Godfathers an eight-run sixth inning gave Matador's Lounge a 15-7 advantage at that time. McDonald, Gary Harvey and Ed Escoveia each had three hits for the winners.

Butch Mislead belted a home run in the fourth inning to give Round Table a 5-4 lead over Kings' and it stayed Kings' Brigade and it stayed ahead.

Jack Miller had two doubles and a single for the victors. Terry Doe smacked a home run in the bottomof the fifth for Kings' Brigade. Skip Jackson added two doubles and a single for the losers.

Red Baron jumped off to a 3-0 lead over Fil-Circle in the first inning and never trailed. The winners collected 15 hits to 10 for Fil-Circle.

Dwayne Childess had a double and two singles forRed Baron.

Farmer's Insurance has lost just once all season and has beaten most of its opponents by lopsided margins.

Today's games will all be played at Max Baer Park.

Farmers' and Matador's Lounge will square off at 9:30 a.m., followed by the Round Table-Red Baron game at 11 a.m.

The winners of the semi-final contests will battle at 3:30 for the championship. The consolation championship game will be held at 5.

Team trophies will be awarded to the first, second and consolation champions.

Walker HR keys Native Sons

Native Sons edged past Oggies Swingers 12-11 in Livermore Recreation men's softball action Tuesday.

The winners withstood a five - run Swingers rally in the seventh inning.

Ward Walker got the victors off winging with a solo home run in the first inning. Native Sons added a run in the second on singles by Mark Rossmussen and Russ Rossmussen plus an error.

Walkr led the winners with three hits, including a double. Nick Livermore, Bruce Henry, Mark Rossmussen and Russ Rossmussen each added two hits.

Neil Furakowski led the losers with two doubles and two singles. Doug Pope added a fifth - inning home run and three singles.

Left Overs topped Costal Rigging 11-8, jumping off to a 5-0 lead in the second inning.

Singles by Vic Camarillo, Doug Schauffelburer and Bill Eackels sparked the rally. Another five - run effort in the fifth inning secured the victory.

Eackels had a double and two singles for the Left Overs. Vic Renald added two singles and reached base on an error.

Dave Tatum had a double and two singles for the losers. Bob Daniels added two singles and a sacrifice fly in the seventh inning which drove in a run.

Ron Monk's Insurance romped over American Sports Supply 10-6.

Leading just 5-4 entering the sixth the winners exploded for five runs to cinch the victory.

Doubles by Randy Harbett and Nelson Fong plus a triple by Eric Lyons keyed the rally. Lyons' triple drove in two runs.

Jeff Chapman had a double and two singles for the losers. Chuck Mack added a double and single.

Bell - Engineering topped Fil - Am 10-7.

The victors scored three times in the sixth to take a 10-6 lead.

Ron Carr led off with a single, Jim Page reached first in an error and another error scored Carr. A double by Woody Manchester scored the final two runs.

Manchester led the winners with three hits. Chuck Santos and Nick Salazar each had two hits for Fil - Am.

Best ball tournament boasts top entrants

Several of the best junior golfers in Northern California will compete in the Livermore City Junior Best Ball Tournament at Las Positas Golf Club tomorrow and Tuesday.

Some of the competitors include Chris Mills of Fremont, who finished second in the Northern California Golf Association Junior Tournament last week, Arnold Hawkins of San Francisco, and David Najarian of Alamo.

Some of the top local golfers entered are Keith Olson of Pleasanton, Frank Moona of Pleasanton and David Sisti and Mike Culy of Livermore.

The tournament is open to boys and girls 12 to 17 years of age. This is a team-play event. The best scores of either partner is recorded as the team score for each hole.

Teams may be made up of two boys, two girls or a boy and girl.

All teams will play 36 holes. The top 10 teams will play 54 holes. 1977 no-shows will not be allowed to compete in 1978. The entry list is limited to the first 80 teams.

PJFL holds 2nd "talent" contest

The Pleasanton Junior Football League (PJFL) will hold its second annual Tri-Valley Punt, Pass, Kick and Run Contest Saturday from noon and Monday, Aug. 22 from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Val Vista Recreation Center in Pleasanton.

The contest is open to all Tri-Valley youths born after November 30, 1961. Trophies will be awarded in each of 10 age-weight classifications.

The 10 winners will become eligible for the drawing for the Grand Prize, an Oakland Raider autographed football, tickets to a Raider game, or similar item.

Contest participants do not have to be PJFL members. There is no entrance fee. Contestants participate on any one, but just one, of the three days.

In conjunction with the P,P,K&R contest, PJFL will hold sign-ups, official weigh-ins and physical examinations at the same locations at the same times. Qualified pediatricians will be on hand to perform the examinations which are included free in the $20 registration fee. Interested players should bring a birth-certificate and be accompanied by a parent on any one of the three days. Players must complete registration, physical examination, and be weighed in by August 24 to be in on the initial team assignments.

Practice starts Aug. 29. Players are urged to report Saturday because a large crowd is expected to report on Monday.

The league is still seeking qualified head and assistant coaches. Persons interested in coaching should contact Jack Ellis at 846-9494. For further PJFL information call Irv J demuth at 443-2032.

Volleyball inks, forms

All girls interested in competing on Dublin High School's championship volleyball team this coming season should pick up their insurance and physical examination forms as soon as possible at Dublin's student activities.

All forms should be completed before the first day of practice, which is scheduled for Monday, Aug. 29 at 10 a.m.

PGSA ref clinic

The Pleasanton Girls' Soccer Association will sponsor a referee's clinic, which leads to CYSA or USSF certification.

The ref clinic will be held at the Cultural Arts Building, 4477 Black Avenue in Pleasanton tomorrow, on Wednesday; Aug. 23 and August 25. There will be a test Aug. 30. The class will be held at 7:30 p.m. each night.

Registration fee is $5. For further information, call Leroy Carcia at 846-9552.

Youth class on bowling

The Granada Bowl will be presenting a new series of Learn to Bowl Classes for the Valley youth ages 6-18 in a series of three lessons to be held Thursdays at 4 p.m. starting August 18.

The registration fee for all three classes is $1.

The classes include certified instructors, classroom and on-the-lane instructions, film colored strips with sound, take-home booklets, group and individual instructions.

Interested youths may call Granada Bowl at 447-5600.

Winter bowling leagues slated

The Granada Bowl in Livermore has released its new 32-lane Winter League bowling schedule for the 1977-78 season, their 18th winter season and first on the new 32 lanes with AMF 82-70 pinspotters.

77 leagues are available to choose from, with Ladies daytime leagues every morning at 9:30 a.m. and Noon featuring free coffee and provided-for babysitting.

All day leagues are handicapped, with the exception of the Women's Invitational Scratch League on Tuesdays at Noon.

Leagues for everyone are available Mondays at 9:30 with the Savings Bond League. Every bowler receives a $25 Savings Bond. At Noon the Blue Chip Stamps Trio enables you to win stamps weekly while bowling league play.

The 77 Trophy League, Noon Tuesdays, has trophies awarded weekly for high handicap series and game plus trophies at season's end — a total of 77 trophies.

Thursdays at Noon the Grocery League features groceries and prize money to win, while Fridays at 9:30 a.m. you can win a freezer full of beef in the Beef Steak League.

Night leagues are featured seven days a week at 6:15 and 9 p.m., also with free babysitting. Mixed leagues are on tap every evening along with women's leagues on Mondays at 6:15 and 9 p.m. and Thursdays at 9 p.m.

Men's leagues are on Mondays at 9 p.m. with the Classic and the Valley 800 handicap. Two other men's handicap leagues are on Wednesdays at 9 p.m. and Friday at 6:15.

All league bowlers receive a discount card membership for open bowling. Interested persons may sign up at the Granada Bowl, 1620 Railroad Avenue, or call 447-5600.

Newman named coach of year

NEW YORK — Ron Newman, coach of the Ft. Lauderdale Strikers, whose 19-7 record captured the Eastern Division of the North American Soccer Leagur this season, has been named as the league's "Coach of the Year," it was announced recently.

In gaining the honor, Newman was the nearly-unanimous choice of the NASL's general managers and coahces who particpated in the balloting, getting 27 out of a possible 34 votes.

THE LITTLE GIANT

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — One of the new members of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Bill Willis, would be considered almost a midget by modern standards for an interior lineman position.

Bill, who played middle guard on defense for the Cleveland Browns from 1946 to 1953, was only 210 pounds, spread loosely over a 6-foot, 2-inch frame. But he was a savage tackler and very difficult for blockers to wipe out.

Livermore

Office complex will feature open space

Sunset Office Plaza — Sunset Development Company's newest venture is scheduled to open on October 1, 1977. Nearly 80,000 square feet — 10 buildings on 13.3 acres.

Sunset Office Plaza, one of nothern California's most modern and finest office complexes, offers exciting and distinctly different suite designs and environments that will bring out the best in you, so much needed in today's business world.

There was a great deal of planning and research by Sunset Development Company in selecting the right location for the office complex. As Perry Harabadian, Senior Vice President stated, we want our tenants to have a feeling of contentment as they drive up to their office and yt have the convenience of a total shopping center area close by.

After much consideration, the 13.3 acres at the intersection of Holmes Street (Highway 84) and Concannon Blvd. was selected. Just minutes away from open country, parks and recreational facilities; yet, just across the street there are shops, bank, restaurant and other facilities for the convenience of our tenants.

Over 7 acres of lavish landscaping, Spanish tiled roofs, beautiful courtyards, color coordinated interiors and ample free parking for all. Each suite is private.

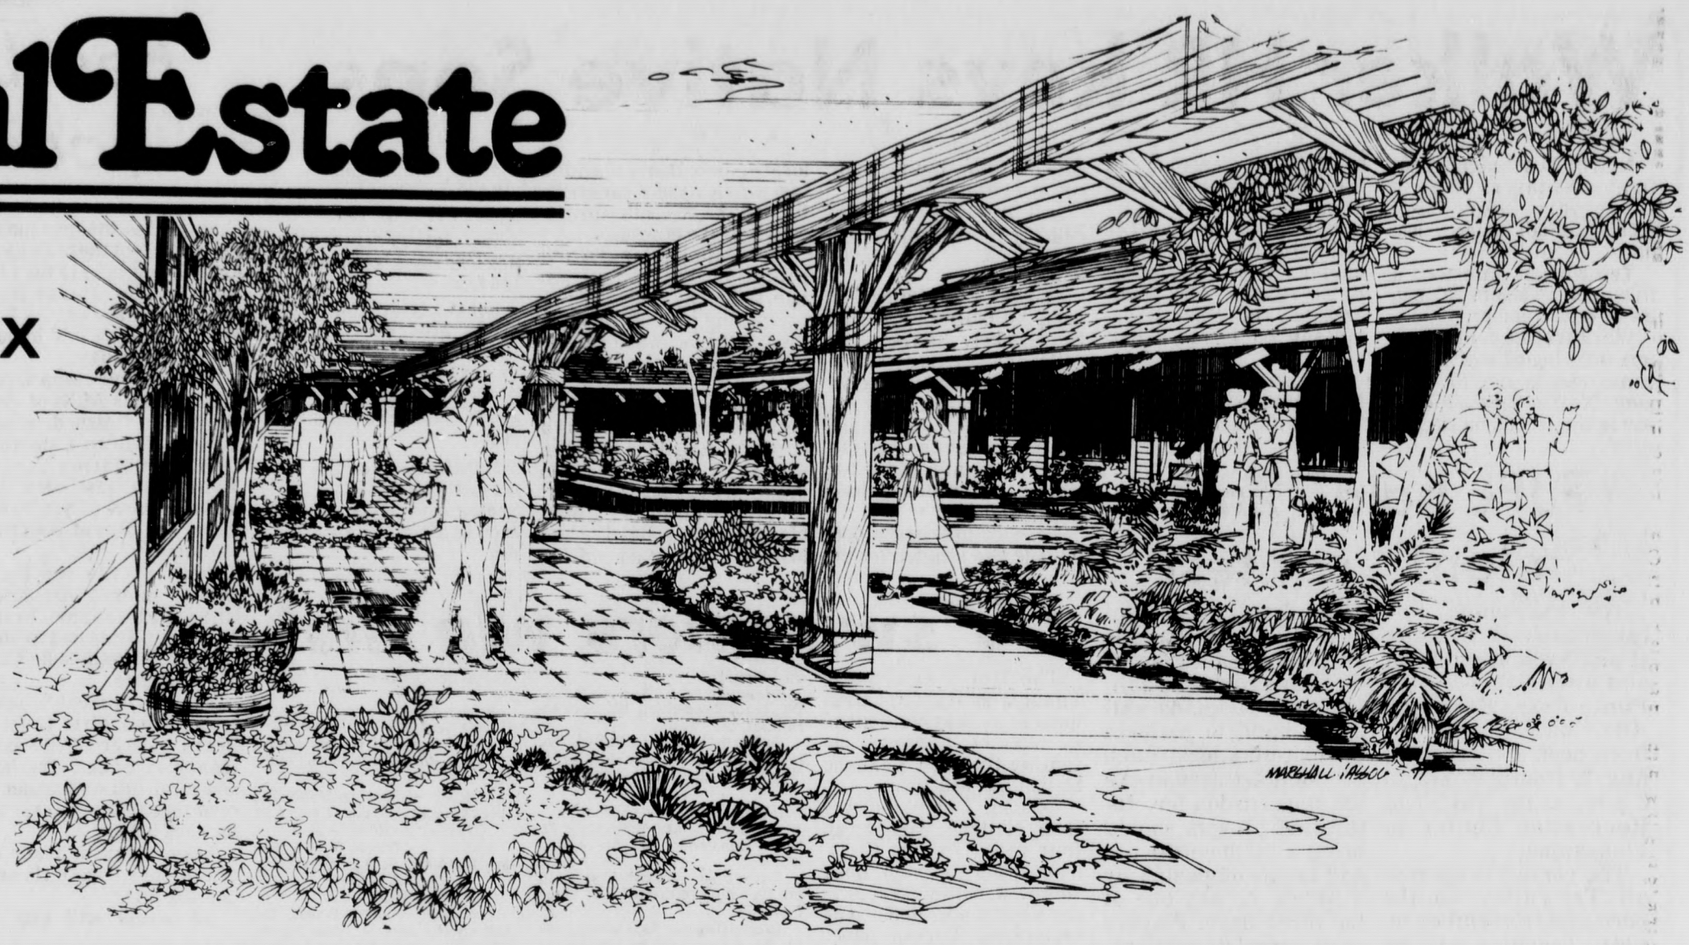
One of our goals in designing the buildings was to come up with office space for the individual or small company just starting a new business and also have the space for the large or expanding companies. One building will offer 8,750 square feet, or we are in a position to offer additional buildings to any one company who is desirous of combining their activities.

A portion of the total complex will be devoted to custom tailored Medical/Dental offices finished with ample cabinetry and designed with today's technology in mind.

The response for leasing of space has been very gratifying states Harabadian. New tenants include dentists, engineering and architectural firm, manufacturers representative, answering service and real estate companies. Negotiations are presently underway with several companies who wish to locate their corporate offices here.

One of our main objectives, states Harabadian, is to help our tenants to remember ... When going to work was a pleasure!

Come to Livermore, California today and see for yourself. Sunset Office Plaza — 1712 Holmes Street (off Concannon Blvd.) Phone: (415) 447-5650.



Sunset Office Plaza will feature a comfortable landscaped mall.

Major Alamo expansion

Developer plans big shopping hub

ALAMO — Developer Fred Redman will spend the next week trying to convince residents here that his redevelopment plan for Market Plaza Shopping Center is a good idea for the community.

Designs and plans for the proposal to expand the complex will be on display from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. until Aug. 18 at the plaza's Bank of America branch.

The project comes before the Alamo Improvement Association Aug. 18. By then, Redman hopes he'll have convinced enough people and the association will endorse it.

His task won't be easy.

A survey mailed to more than 2,700 area families last May revealed considerable opposition to the expansion.

Redman knows it and he plans to be on hand every day this week and next at the center between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. to answer questions.

"After people see the display," he said, "we hope they'll understand what we're trying to do — eliminate an eyesore and make it a beautiful place for Alamo."

Although the association, which is comprised of hundreds of Alamo homeowners, has no actual power, it does have significant political clout. Therefore, said Redman, "if you have their blessings, you've got half the battle won."

The battle, however, may involve some casualties before its over.

Of 964 replies to the survey, 39 per cent expressed some opposition to the plan. Twenty-six per cent of this group voiced strong disapproval.

The plan calls for more than tripling the 20-year-old shopping center's size, from 63,000 square feet to 190,000 square feet. More than 500 new parking spaces will be added to the present 300.

Safeway supermarket, which is now across the street, will move into new quarters in the plaza along with a Payless drug store and Diablo Savings and Loan.

Buildings will be designed in Spanish mission style with tile roofs sloping downward to form covered walkways. Slump stone will be used on outer walls to give the effect of old adobe.

"Everything that's old will be torn down and everything else will be remodeled," said Redman.

Extensive landscaping is also planned. Full grown trees and vine covered trellises will be installed throughout the 19-acre complex.

"We want to make it look like a park, so when people drive by they don't have to look at asphalt," he said.

"Even the parking lanes will have one or more trees."

Redman sees the complex which will be renamed Alamo Plaza, as a complete community service area centered around b nks, food and drug s, and specialty shops.

"In no way are we trying to compete with regional shopping centers such as Sun Valley. We're not looking to draw upon people from other communities," he explained. Should the $8 million center be approved, construction would begin in December.

Observations in home buys

By BILL HAYWARD

BACK IN 1962, THERE CAME A MOVEMENT to guard new home buyers against a building developer that had failed to keep his contractual promises to his customers.

Here is the way it went. A number of people in the new subdivision had found fault with a number of things about the properties that they had purchased new and hopefully guaranteed for the first year after completion.

A few of the families approached the builder individually and received little or no results. Their complaints ranged from faulty appliances to unfinished cabinets, poor door hardware and a number of little incomplete matters that a new home owner expects to be taken care of as part of the new ownership.

Some of these folks felt like they had purchased a new car with a dented fender. As individuals they got nowhere with the complaints. This is how the "Homebuyers Protective Association" was formed.

A group of new home owners formed an association to combat the problem with the strength of a number of dissatisfied new home owners. To this day in 1977 it is difficult to establish whether or not this family association of homeowners really accomplished their goals.

We understand that some of the difficulties were ironed out within a year or so yet to this day many of major problems have never been solved.

New UCB warranty includes air units in home coverage

Expansion plans, a new home warranty program, "deferred compensation program" and awards to recent graduates of the Dale Carnegie Sales Training Course were among the events at the recent company meeting of United California Brokers.

The breakfast meeting, held at the San Ramon Country Club, was one of a regular series held by the brokerage firm to officially recognize superior achievements and to keep members of the firm abreast of recent developments within the company.

Herb Singleton, one of the principals of UCB, announced that the company, which has offices in Livermore, Dublin, Danville and Walnut Creek, has made arrangements for a one-year home warranty program available on all homes sold by UCB. Singleton said that the UCB home warranty program will be the first offered in the Valley area that will include coverage of central air conditioning units.

Leon Gautung, President of UCB, announced that the company has implementing a "deferred" compensation program" for all its sales representatives. UCB is the only real estate brokerage firm in the Valley to offer such a program, which will set aside a percentage of earnings for retirement.

Jim Pratt, Manager of UCB's Walnut Creek office, announced that, because of the marked increase in sales volume at that office and the subsequent expansion of its sales staff, he has located larger quarters in Walnut Creek at Ygnacio Valley Road.

"Salesperson of the Month" plaques were presented to the May and June top performers from each of the UCB branches. Winners were: Barbara Rose (May) and Eve Jones (June) of the Livermore office; Rosie Yandell (May) and Eve Jones (June) of the Dublin office; Gilda Nonnenkamp (May) and Gary Moylan (June) of the Danville office and Kenn Roberts (June) of the Walnut Creek office. Bob Hobart of the Dublin office was honored with a plaque for reaching the $2 million sales level, and Marge Aley of the Dublin office and Ken Carey of the Danville office were given awards for sales in excess of $1 million.

Eddie Snow, President of Eddie C. Snow, Inc., who present the Dale Carnegie courses in the East Bay, held the final training session for the 26 members of the UCB sales staff who have been taking the current program. Following the session, Snow presented the graduates with their certificates and recognition awards. Singleton closed the meeting by thanking the sales staff for their dedication to professionalism in real estate (over 60 UCB sales representatives have now taken the Dale Carnegie Sales Training Course, and the managers of all offices have also graduated from the Dale Carnegie Management Seminars.)

Ron Rinard

Pleasanton real estate firm has new associate

Are you thinking of selling your home?

Osborne Realty of Pleasanton recently welcomed Ron Rinard, a San Ramon resident, to their sales staff. You'll be pleased with his professional handling of your real estate needs.

Ron, who has twenty years of previous sales experience, has first hand experience in real estate as general partner of Rinard Investment Propertis of 'California and as manager and owner of apartment properties in San Diego and Alameda Counties. In his short association with Osborne Realty his real estate sales total more than $365,000.

Ron is currently Vice-Chairman of the Advisory Board of Directors of the Family Medical Center in San Ramon where he and his wife and three children have lived for the past four years. He is also President and member of the Board of Directors of the Parent-Child Education Association of California.

Valley home buyer proves warranty plan is success

Home Warranty Plan Really Works!

Manny Alvarez prominent businessman in Pleasanton purchased a home through Red Carpet Realtors, Pleasanton 11 months ago with the Dependable Home Warranty Plan. One week ago, the forty gallon water heater broke. This would have cost Alvarez over $150.00. When Alvarez's tennants phoned Red Carpet Realtors who are currently managing his new property, Vivian Tracy, saleswoman checked upon the trouble and quickly took care of the broken water heater under warranty.

Prospective buyers and sellers in today's real estate market are discovering a new feature when looking to buy or sell a home. Dependable Home Warranty is a protection plan that lasts for one year or longer after the listing of their home.

Anti-state urban plan stand seen

MODESTO — The head of organized Real Estate in California urged San Joaquin Valley Realtors to join in opposition to the State's recently proposed Urban Development Strategy, which he termed an "unrealistic and bureaucratic" approach to future development.

Speaking before Valley Realtors from a five-county area in Modesto, Jerome Blank of Albany, President of the 100,000-member California Association of Realtors, said his organization "strongly opposes" the strategy authored by William Press of the State Office of Planning and Research.

The plan is currently being presented in public hearings through-out the state.

Blank said that members of his association have been appearing at these hearings to speak against what he called "a serious erosion" of the powers of local elected governments.

"The rights of property owners are being chiseled away by an-ever growing bureaucracy," Blank said. "The State's proposed Urban Development Strategy Plan takes decision-making powers away from local elected officials and puts them in the hands of appointed regional council of government who do not have to answer to the people."

Blank said the proposed strategy would increase the State's role giving it the power to "design or limit" industrial development and its impact on jobs and tax availability at the local level.

"It would give the state power to manipulate the location of new industry where the state says, not where the community wants it," he told the Valley-area Realtors. "It also includes the discouragement of thp building of single family homes, and you, in particular, know the importance of new home construction to areas such as Modesto and the Central Valley.

"We don't say we should have runaway growth without some kind of controls, but this is dangerous," Blank continued, "and we must continue to express our opposition and point of view on behalf of California property owners."

He said the plan does not address itself to the realities of the marketplace and would only add further restrictions to the development of new needed housing and jobs throughout the state. He urged Realtors and the public to contact their legislators to oppose these new state controls.

N. Calif. building is booming

SAN FRANCISCO — Northern Coastal California's building permit valuations topped a record $370 million during June, up 22 per cent from the $303 million May figure.

Gerald McIntyre, vice president and administrator of the bank's Real Estate Finance Department in San Francisco, said that the continuing high level of residential building in the region contributed substantially to the June increase. "Over 6,000 new dwelling units were authorized for construction in the Northern Coastal area during the month," he explained, "the highest total since June, 1973."

He based his report on data compiled by Security Pacific Bank's Research Department for the current issue of the bank's monthly publication, California Construction Trends, which this month features a regional analysis of building trends.

Security Pacific Bank's executive said that homebuilding permits issued during June totaled $258 million, up 17 per cent from the $219 million level recorded in May. "While single-family home construction reached $183 million in june, up 6 per cent from the May level, multifamily construction topped $49 million, almost double the month-earlier level," he noted.

Few homes remaining at Danville Station

Danville — Only a few homes remain for sale at Kaufman p Danville Station, according to an announcement by the builder.

A few landscaped and air conditioned model homes are also still available, he says.

Three-, four-, and six-bedroom production homes are priced from $82,990. Some are being built on premium view lots. Model homes, which also contain decks and patios, wallpaper, upgrade carpeting and built-ins, are priced from $97,990.

"Danville Station is our third very successful community in Danville. But we are out of land now in this great area, and it may be sometime before we can here again," says Armando Ortega, director of marketing for Kaufman & Broad in Northern California.

"I have been involved in home building in many parts of the country and this is the most beautiful community I have experienced.

"To the east, Mount Diablo is etched sharply against the sky, while to the west, cattle and horses graze on the wooded slopes of Las Trampas Ridge Wilderness Area. This is what California must have looked like at the turn of the century."

A woman and her work

Penny Lewis wants to be No. 1

By BOB NOREK

CONCORD — Penny Lewis is ambitious, talented and a hard worker.

She believes in her profession (real estate), her firm (Country Homes), her staff and herself.

Four years ago, Penny was a new real estate licensee and today she is the president and principal owner of Country Homes, one of the central county's fastest growing realty firms.

Penny says her quick climb to the presidency was a combination on hard work and a little "greed." She explains that in the real estate field "you receive what you put in."

Penny began at Country Homes three and one-half years ago as a salesperson. She soon worked herself up through the ranks of administration and in 1976 became vice president of the firm and purchased 25 per cent of the company.

On July 5, Penny became the president and principal owner when she bought out

Penny is an enthusiastic advocate of her industry and its education program to improve agent and broker professionalism. "There's no end in sight for the professional realtor in Contra Costa," says the new GRI (Graduate Realtor Institute) course instructor.

"Real estate is a fantastic field for women. I believe it's a woman's field. We seem to have a touch for selling homes."

Penny predicts the industy will see more and more women entering real estate and advancing to executive positions. A majority of Country Homes staff and management are women.

Penny comments that ratio just "happend that way, it was not planned."

Penny believes real estate is very attractive to women because, as she found, it was one the industry that rewarded hard work and talent with money and advancement.

Her goal for Country Homes is to have the firm recognized as the number one realty firm in the county. Country Homes has offices in Walnut Creek, Lafayette, Danville and here.

Penny says Country Homes is a "people company." The president, who loves to relax by dancing, adds, "our people make this company, without people we wouldn't be Country Homes."

She has an open door policy for all staff members and encourages employes to reach for the stars. In fact, Penny recently encouraged staff members to seek her job if they so desired.

The single mother of four and a recent grandmother is an active member of the Contra Costa Board of Realtors. Penny has and is serving on various board committees.

Asked if she has plans for Country Homes, Penny answers, "Lord, I got so many plans!"

Penny hopes to extend Country Homes' training program beyond the scope of her firm. Penny, who ran the training effort for two and one-half years, says the Country Homes course is the best in-firm training available in this area..

"Our program is in constant update and the total training course is completely revised every three to six months to meet market demands. Our managers are also involved in the program."

Country Homes growth is another one of Penny's many plans. She hopes to open offices in the east and west county. Antioch may be the newest branch office for Country Homes.

RE team trains on Carnegie

Herb Singleton, one of the principals of United California Brokers, has announced that UCB is the first real estate firm to have an exclusive Dale Carnegie course for its sales people. Twenty-six sales representatives from the real estate brokerage firm (including himself) were recently graduated from the Dale Carnegie Sales Training Course. This brings the total number of Dale Carnegie trained personnel at UCB to more than two-thirds of the total sales force.

In making the announcement, Singleton expressed his pride at the dedication of those members of the staff who, at their own expense, have taken the course to further their effectiveness and knowledge of the real estate profession. "It says a great deal for our people," he stated, "that they have demonstrated their respect for the profession and its standards, and their concern for the individual sellers and buyers they work with, to expand their already long hours for concentrated studies in real estate techniques." The other members of the UCB team had previous completed the sales training course, including the managers of the firm's four offices, who have also gone on to graduated from the Dale Carnegie Management Seminars.

The sales training course attended by the recent graduates was organized exclusively for United California Brokers sales staff members by Singleton and Eddie Snow, President, Eddie C. Snow, Inc., who present the Dale Carnegie courses in the East Bay. "By scheduling the classes for our staff members only, we have been able to emphasize the specific problems and needs of sellers and buyers in the Valley area, so that our members not only have the benefit of the overall training and sales techniques, but also develop a special awareness of the local real estate market. The benefits, of course, are passed on to our clients."

The recent graduates were presented with their diplomas by Snow at the recent UCB company meeting held at the San Ramon Country Club. In addition to their diplomas, each graduate was given a special recognition award. Winners were:

Reporting Award (reporting to the group on in-field lesson applications): Barbara Rose (Livermore), Joy Pratt (Danville), Harry Schader (Walnut Creek), Kenn Roberts (Walnut Creek), Ron Welton (Walnut Creek), Jean Hahn (Dublin), Pam Goddard (Dublin), Ron Whitman (Livermore), Randy Starkey (Walnut Creek), Sue McKemy (Livermore) and Herb Singleton.

Recognition Award (given by instructor or group leader for early participation or later outstanding development): Kenn Roberts (Walnut Creek), Joan Padkin (Danville), Lu Merritt (Danville), Gelda Nonnenkamp (Danville), Sandy Young (Livermore), Bob Lewis (Danville), Don Davis (Danville), Marilyn Schilling (Danville), Randy Starkey (Walnut Creek), Larry Goddard (Walnut Creek) and Dorothy Hull (Danville).

Contest Award (winners in various class competition categories: Herb Singleton, Ron Welton (Walnut Creek), Janet Schlip (Dublin), Joy Pratt (Danville) and Harry Schader (Walnut Creek). Winner of both the Human Relations award for greatest contribution to the entire class.

Energy to heat, cool

East Bay builder spurs solar use

By BOB NOREK

PLEASANT HILL — While everybody is talking about solar energy, Ed Beard is doing something constructive about the energy source.

Beard, a Pleasant Hill commerical building developer, is planning to build a 25,000-square-foot building which will be heated and cooled by solar energy.

Beard, a former electronics equipment manufacturer, believes his building will be the first such structure in the Bay Area.

An avid advocate of solar energy, Beard says the "state of the art is here" and he is going to use it in his new building.

But first, Beard, president of Nebco, will run a test solar heating and cooling program at his present building on Mayhew Road here.

"I will have to retrofit the building for solar," Beard says. Beard's pilot solar program will use an Arkla absorption chiller. The three-ton unit will cool the 1,600 square feet of office space.

The developer plans to use 24 solar panels, purchased from 10 major manufacturers of flat plate collectors. in the test system. Installation of the system is scheduled to take place this week.

Beard says the pilot program will be extensively monitored for future evaluation prior to the installation of the larger system in his new building at 3333 Vincent Drive, here.

According to Beard, the new structure will be concrete tilt-up, two floors and feature a 25-ton Arkla absorption chiller for cooling. Approximatley 5,000 square feet of flat plate collectors will be used to supply the space heat requirements.

An outstanding feature of the solar system will be a 10,000-gallon hot water storage tank which stands 22 feet high and will be located in the center of the building.

Beard reports the tank will be housed in an insulated twelve-by twelve room which extends to the roof of the building.

"Preheated air will be drawn from this enclosure and further heated by heat exchanger coils in the area duct system for distribution to various building compartments," Beard says.

Beard adds the 5,000 square feet of collectors will not be adequate to operate the 25-ton chiller, so he will install high-temperature parabolic reflectors to obtain hot water temperatures approaching 208 degrees for efficient operation.

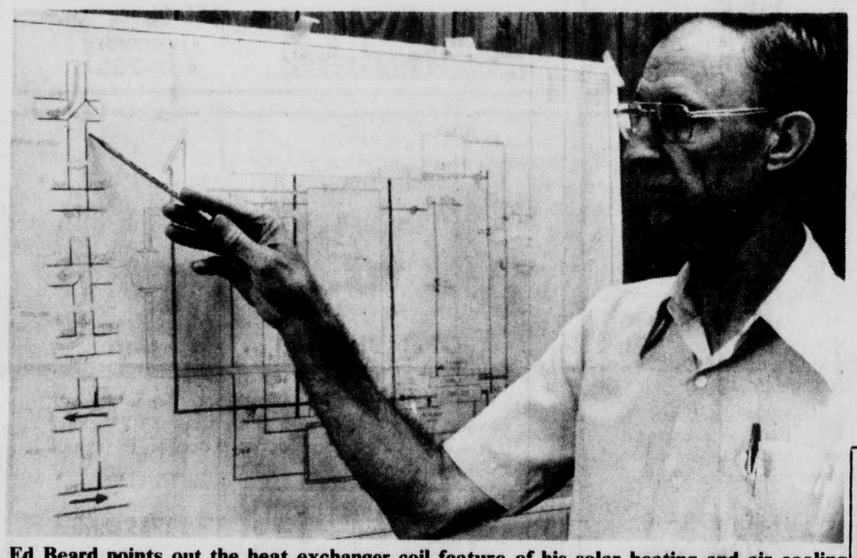
Beard believes his system will supply 85 to 90 per cent of the heating needs, 100 per cent of the air conditioning and between 90 and 95 per cent of the hot water.

The developer's system is designed to allow the use of fresh morning air to cool the fully insulated building before the solar equipment is activated.

Beard says the system will cost around $325,000 and it is financed privately, but he will seek federal funds from ERDA. Beard says that based on possible federal, state tax benefits and energy cost savings the system should be paid for in seven to eight years.

By using the solar system on the structure, ground is scheduled to be broken this month with occupancy by late December, Beard hopes to pass on to his tenants 25 per cent of the energy cost savings.

The developer decided to go solar for both heating and air cooling to reduce the cost of purchasing and installing the solar energy equipment.



Ed Beard points out the heat exchanger coil feature of his solar heating and air cooling system on his design. Beard believes his planned commercial building will be the first in the area to use such a system.

Huge tax relief plan seen for home owners

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A new $974-million tax relief plan that would boost the price of new homes was unveiled Friday by the chairman of the legislative committee writing the tax cut bill.

The latest proposed compromise would impose property taxes earlier on new homes and other construction. But it would completely abolish the business inventory tax, which government, labor and business leaders all say drives jobs out of California.

Major provisions of earlier bills are contained in the newest proposal by Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland.

The bill, like earlier measures, would give rebates averaging $223 each to 60 per cent of California's 4 million homeowners, with the biggest checks in middle and lower-middle income brackets. Renters would get annual rebates averaging $113.

The homeowner rebates would total an estimated $525 million and renter rebates $304 million in the coming year.

But the latest Petris plan would leap to $1.4 billion in its second year and would grow still bigger in following years with major shifts and increases in some business and property taxes.

It would abolish the business inventory tax in 1978, an estimated $454-million-a-year source of revenue.

To make up for that, it would raise the state bank and corporation tax from 9 to 10 per cent, raising $217 million a year, and changing the lien date for assessment of new construction, which is expected to raise $177 million annually.

The rest of the bill — $754 million this year and $849 million next year — would be financed from state budget surpluses.

Currently, homes and other buildings are assessed each March 1, and that figure is used to determine property taxes for the next year. Petris said that means projects built during the spring and summer escape most property taxes the first year.

His plan would start assessing taxes as soon as the home, factory, office or apartment building is completed. He said those costs for most homeowners would be a one-time extra expense paid in escrow upon purchase, or a factor increasing the developer's costs and prices.

Petris said that his plan, taken in combination with the school finance compromise approved Thursday by a separate committee, is bigger than anticipated state revenues, even when the proposed new taxes are added in.

The schools bill, which is intended to meet the California Supreme Court's order to eliminate differences between rich and poor districts, has a fiveyear price tag of $4.1 billion.

Petris' plan would be about the same magnitude, although five-year estimates were not available.

Bank drops rate

SAN FRANCISCO — Because of healthier and more stable conditions in the California housing and mortgage markets, the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco has lowered its interest rates on loans to member savings and loan associations in the Eleventh District by one - fourth of 1 per cent.

pr. Maurice Mann, president of the San Francisco FHLB, said the bank's action "reflects an improvement in S&L morgage loan activity, as well as a marked tapering off in the rate of increase in housing prices and a slowdown in the level of speculative homebuying during the past few weeks."

The bank's board of directors approved the rate reduction at its monthly meeting today, lowering short - term rates from 7.5 per cent to 7.25 per cent and dropping long - term rates from 8.5 per cent to 8.25 per cent. The action applies to savings and loan associations in Arizona, California, and Nevada.

In April, the bank raised its interest rates by a full percentage point in response to the rapid escalation of home prices and housing speculation, and to the increasing volume of mortgage loan commitments being by S&Ls, particularly in California.

Real Estate

Are flat rate commissions a bargain?

By BOB NOREK
Homes Editor

WALNUT CREEK —Any consumer worth his or her salt will shop for bargains. But what makes he or she the wise consumer is the ability to judge if the bargain is really worth the price.

Two Contra Costa real estate firms are offering what could be called "bargains" for consumers. Solar Real Estate System and 1999 Real Estate feature flat rate commissions.

Solar offers a graduated scale based on the home price. According to Craig Ash, Solar Corporation president, the average commission at the firm's new Lafayette office is $3,000 which is the rate for $75,000 to $100,000 homes.

Concord's 1999 asks only $1,999 as a commission for any sale be it a $40,000 townhouse or a $160,000 home, according to broker Dave Zeigler.

What do other realtors, who charged the traditional 6 per cent sales commission, think? Not much, in fact, some say flat rates stink.

One realtor told The Times he would not bother with flat rate commission homes. "It's been tried before and it doesn't work over the long run." Another realtor commented he did not know how agents working under the flat rate system could survive.

"I know I would have a hard time making a living working for one of those shops," the realtor said.

Is professionalism reduced with a "bargain" rate commission? Several traditional realtors feel that needed quality in today's homes market may be diluted with low flat rate commissions.

"You get what you pay for," is the comment of Penny Lewis, president of Country Homes, when asked what she thought about flat rates. "When you want a professional, you pay for a professional," she says.

Even more vocal on the subject of flat commission rates is realtor -associate Steve Marcus of Walnut Creek's Woolen & Woolen. Marcus says a home is probably the largest single investment made by a consumer. "Certainly you want a professional handling your largest investment!"

Marcus says the flat rate scheme is "usually the last effort to stay in business and in some cases, the final step prior to bankruptcy."

The realtor - associate charges that since the fee is considerably less and since they (flat rate firms) dare not reduce their net profit, they must drastically reduce their overhead in the service area.

The result is, according to Marcus, less advertising, less time spent on each home and less time solving problems. Marcus also charges homes handled by "cut - rate firms" are offered below market value since they have to be sold faster to reduce advertising and marketing costs.

Marcus believes that for proper and professional service, the 6 per cent commission is modest and appropriate. Marcus says, "It is my desire, as well as the desire of all professional realtors, to provide the most knowledgeable, ethical and professional service possible" to the homeowner.

Solar's Ash says, "Our track record proves our system of graduated flat commission ate does work." Ash says the firm has enjoyed tremendous success in the east county.
